A Trip to Scotland

Hello, Dan!

I am writing to you from Scotland. Now I am on holiday with my parents and sister. We are we visiting my grandparents Sandra and Steven. They live in a beautiful old city called Edinburgh. It's very ancient. It has a famous castle in the center which is called the White Castle. Today we are going to celebrate Granny's anniversary. She is 60 but she doesn't look like an elderly lady.

We arrived in Edinburgh three days ago on April 21. Yesterday we went on a sightseeing tour around the Castle. I took a lot of interesting photos to my travel photo album. We also went to the travel agency. Dad had a wonderful idea – to book a see voyage to Iceland as a birthday present for our granny. She has always dreamt of visiting this picturesque country. She enjoys travelling and we hope she will be pleased with our present.

Today we are very busy. Mum is baking a big cake for granny. Aunt Susan is cooking some roast meat and vegetable curry. My sister Linda is decorating a party hall. Dad is arranging a video film about granny's life.

Last year we also arrived in Edinburgh but it was in summer during the world famous Edinburgh Art Festival. My elder sister Linda is a talented violinist and she performed at the festival. All our family wanted to support her.

Bye for now. I have to go. I have to help my dad to arrange a video slide show about granny.

See you soon,

Kevin

Clothes We Wear

Clothes give a lot of information about us. For example, we wear clothes to keep us warm because unlike animals we do not have a protecting covering of hair. But in different life situations we dress in clothes of different colours, style and material; for official parties men wear dark suits and a tie (or a bowtie) and women wear long evening dresses and jewellery.

There are some strict rules about clothes style. We do not, for instance, wear football boots with a dinner jacket, or jeans to work in a bank. A farmer who takes care of animals or works in a field will not wear a suit and a bowtie.

There are many schools where schoolchildren must wear a school uniform. Of course, not all boys and girls like this rule. If you go to the beach on a sunny day, you usually put on a T-shirt, shorts and sandals because you want to feel comfortable. Our clothes say something about our character and our positive or negative attitude to life.

Tick TRUE or FALSE

1. Animals' clothes are their hair.
2. We wear different clothes on different occasions.

3. Men wear jeans and T-shirts at the official parties.

4. We can't wear training shoes with a long evening dress.
