

Mixed Berry Doggie Ice Cream with PB Milkbone Crumble

Serves: 4 Print

Ingredients:

2 very ripe bananas, quartered and frozen

1 cup frozen mixed berries

½ cup coconut milk

4 Milkbone dog cookies

1/8 cup rolled oats

1 tbsp peanut butter

Directions:

1. Place frozen banana chunks, frozen mixed berries, and coconut milk in a food processor. Process until smooth and creamy. Transfer to serving dish or a freezer safe container. Serve immediately or freeze until ready to serve.
2. Rinse out food processor bowl, and add Milkbone cookies, oats, and peanut butter. Process until cookies are crumbled and mix is combined. Top berry ice cream with desired amount of crumble. Store leftover crumble in an airtight container.

Recipe notes:

*I keep a bag of frozen bananas in my freezer at all times for smoothies, and now for doggie ice cream! When the bananas are very ripe (more black on the skin than yellow), peel and chop them in to quarters. Space them out individually on a plate or tray, and place them in the freezer. After a few hours when they're completely frozen, transfer them to a freezer bag until ready to use.

*If you have leftovers or you're not serving this immediately, the doggie ice cream will get hard in the freezer. Run the closed container of ice cream under hot water for 10-15 seconds, and run your ice cream scoop or spoon under hot water for a few seconds. This will help the doggie ice cream to be loosen up a bit and be scooped out easily.

*These ingredients are totally dog friendly and good for your pups, but keep in mind moderation is still key.

*This isn't a bad snack for the humans, either! Just skip the Milkbone crumble if you're going to enjoy this snack with your puppies.
