What is a bourgeois? Bourgeois was a new social group that appeared in the 19th century. They were rich people who had money and had studied, but they worked.	What is the difference between a bourgeois and a nobleman? A bourgeois worked and a nobleman didn't work	The Industrial Revolution started in the UK in the 19th century. True of false? False. It started in the 18th century
When did the Industrial Revolution start in Spain? In Spain it started in the 18th century	What was the great invention that changed everything and made the Industrial Revolution start? The steam engine	Who started the French Revolution? The French Bourgeoisie
Why did the French Bourgeoisie start ? Because they wanted equal rights. It was unfair noblemen didn't paid taxes and all the others did.	How did the French Revolution finish? They killed the king and queen and established a republic.	Who was Napoleón Bonaparte? He was the emperor of France after the French Revolution. He tried to invade Spain.
Why did the Montín of Aranjuez take place? Because the Spanish population wasn't happy with the French invasion, they revealed and Carlos VI had to abdicate. His son Fernando VII became king of Spain.	Who did Napoleón Bonaparte decide to be King of Spain? His brother José Bonaparte	When was the first Spanish constitution approved? In 1812
What did people call the first Spanish constitution? La Pepa	Why did people call La Pepa the first Spanish constitution? Because it was approved on Saint José's day	What were the fundamentals of La Pepa? National sovereignty resides in the people; equality and freedom; catholic religion as the official religion; Fernando VII as king of Spain; population in the Spanish colonies were considered Spanish citizens
What did Fernando VII do when he became king? He established an absolute monarchy, abolished the constitution, repressed liberals, and abolished the salic law.	Did Fernando VII have a parliamentary monarchy? No, he didn't. He established an absolute monarchy.	Did Isabel II have a parliamentary monarchy? Yes, she did.

How did Isabel II's reign finish?	Why do we call the Spanish Restoration when Alfonso XII became King of Spain?	What were the consequences of the Industrial Revolution?
She went into exile. And Amadeo de Saboya became King of Spain.	Because the Bourbon family came back to the Spanish throne	People emigrated from the countryside to the cities; craftsmen became factory workers; cities became bigger.