Privacy Policy for Auto Email Code Filler

Last Updated: [April 12, 2025]

This extension requires access to your Gmail messages solely for the purpose of identifying login codes or authentication links.

Information We Collect:

- The extension temporarily accesses recent email content only when you initiate the process.
- We do not store, share, or transmit your emails, email metadata, or personal data to any third-party servers.
- No analytics, tracking, or ad services are used in the extension.

Gmail Access & Google API Services:

- We use Google's official APIs and OAuth 2.0 to request read-only access to your Gmail inbox.
- Access is restricted to recent messages for a short time window (under 1 minute).
- Your email data is processed locally and, optionally, may be parsed by an AI model securely hosted.

Your Consent:

- You will be prompted by Google to review and grant permission.
- You can revoke access at any time via your Google Account permissions page.
