A God who looks at me, in all my fallen weakness and says, 'You can do the impossible'" (from the book Kisses from Katie). Katie, in her early 20's adopted 13 children and began a ministry called Amazima in Uganda because of the love of Christ that saturates her.

I believe that our God is in the habit of doing what is impossible (by human standards) in surprising and sometimes strange ways through very improbable people. That is how I have seen my own faith and life intersecting regularly. I am seeing that happening in DUMC. I believe that is what He wants to do in each and every person that He brings through the doors of our church. My prayer is that as Thanksgiving comes around we will hear this testimony more and more in DUMC: "God has done the impossible in me! He has taken me, broken, ordinary, and made something extra-ordinary for himself"

How will you respond to this extraordinary God "who did not spare His own Son (Jesus), but gave Him up for us all—(and) along with Him, graciously gives us all (what we need)"? In what tangible ways will you show your gratitude back to Him?
