Creating a Works Cited Page

Check out Purdue Online Writing Lab (OWL).

For every article, website, etc. you have quoted or paraphrased in your essay, the complete information about how to find that source should appear on your Works Cited page. Here is how to create one.

*Start by looking at a sample of one.

1. Use BibMe.org to help you. Choose MLA and if you have a url to a website paste the url into the Search box. Find the source & hit the Select button. Scroll down and click on Final Step. Scroll down and click on Create Citation.

2. For all sources found online, add in the date the source was read and cited at the end like this ---> Accessed 17 May 2020.

3. Arrange your sources so that they are in alphabetical order based on the first word(s) of the entry.

4. Use a 12 pt, easy-to-read font like New Roman Times.

5. For each entry, indent the first line 1" and the lines below it 1 ½ " called a hanging indent. Here is what that looks like and how to do it. If you don't see your ruler at the top of the doc, go to view and click on "show ruler."

6. If the source has a url, add in a space so that at the end of the page, it carries over to the next line and the formatting is consistent (like the one above).

7. Double space your Works Cited page evenly throughout. There should be no extra spacing between entries. To do this, highlight the text and go to Format ---> Line Spacing ----> Double.

8. Scroll down to view the sample below to see how a Works Cited page should look.
