Career Research	Lifestyle/Cost of Living Research
Career Explorer Search for information using an alphabetical list of careers or click the box that says "Search Careers." Career One Stop Use the search box to search for information about your chosen career; it may help narrow your search by clicking on the tab for Explore Careers. Career Pathways at PCC Use this link to learn about career-related training at Portland Community College. College Board Although this site focuses on training, college, community college, etc., the Careers-Majors page has useful information for this project. Cool Works Use this website to search for job opportunities by geographic location. My Next Move Search using options that allow you to browse by keyword or industry, or to get help choosing a career if you're "not really sure." My Plan Use the search box to search for information about your chosen career; start by clicking on "Career Database." O-NET Online	Education Quest Reality Check Choose Select My Expenses for a cost of living estimate, based on variables you enter Jump $tart Reality Check Scroll down for multiple choice questions that help the website give you a cost of living estimate, based on national averages Occupational Employment Statistics Wage Estimates from the US Bureau of Labor Statistics. Click on the state where you want to live. Choose your desired occupation to see wage estimates. Occupational Outlook Handbook This Bureau of Labor Statistics link will help you research jobs/careers by salary and outlook.

Use the search box to search for information about your chosen career; use the box in the top right for "Occupation Quick Search." Oregon GEAR UP This site features information and links to help with career planning, with an emphasis on college opportunities. Oregon Goes to College This site is loaded with tons of links to post-secondary planning information, with an emphasis on education opportunities, like college, apprenticeships, etc. PPS Apprenticeship Information This link connects you with information about local apprenticeships. Roadtrip Nation This website helps you search for careers based on your interests. Truity This website offers various personality profile tests linked to careers (such as Myers-Briggs and Enneagram as well as solid research information related to career planning. It works the best if you take one of their personality tests first. The Career Profiler is an interesting one to try. Or click on Career Tests to see several ones to try.	