How me and my friend are alike

Vishwak Ravula

I think friendship is a gift for everyone, A true friend will always help you when you are in need and also are very kind to you. In my case, the chances are high that, When I don't like somebody initially, There is a big chance that they will become a very good friend of mine. When I was three, I met my Best friend Hari. Sometimes I feel that we were meant to be friends. Since he was my neighbor, I could spend a lot of time with him and realized that I and Him were alike in many ways. Hari is my best friend because of the ways we are alike which are playing outdoors, drawing characters from the toys we play with and sometimes exchange them with each other .when ever I go to Hari's house its double fun because of his twin brother shiv. The most exciting part was we both loved building and playing around with legos spread all over the floor. It's been a good two years since we've met each other in person since I moved to India but we don't stop there we continued to video call and so we are still the best of friends. one thing I always cherish in our friendship is valuable to people more than anything else
