Abstract: The abstract should briefly explain the clinical context of the case and why it is noteworthy. Highlight the rarity, unusual presentation, diagnostic challenge, therapeutic innovation, or relevance to sport and physical activity, if applicable.
Case(s) presentation summarized the patient's demographic characteristics (age, sex, relevant history), chief complaint, clinical findings, diagnostic procedures, intervention or treatment provided, and clinical course.
Case management(s) describe the therapeutic approach, follow-up findings, and patient outcomes, including any complications or clinical improvements.
Conclusion state the key clinical lessons learned, implications for practice, and relevance for future research or clinical management.
The abstract should be factual, concise, and free from references or undefined abbreviations. The abstract must be written all in one paragraph, in English, with a maximum length of 250 words.
