DIALOGUE - Social Media and Reality TV

A: Hey! Did you see the new episode of The Kardashians on Hulu?

B: No, I don't watch that show. What happened?

A: Every episode is basically the same. The sisters always fight and go to fashion events. They are reality tv stars.

B: Wow! I should check it out, that seems entertaining.

A: It is. They also have a lot of followers on Instagram so they are always in the public eye.

B: I would not like being famous. With so many people watching me, I would feel nervous.

A: I agree. But, I would like to live like the rich and famous for a day to see what it is like.

B: I watch The Real Housewives. The women seem very toxic, but have a lot of fun.

A: I watch that show too. Sometimes, I can't believe the things they say. They can be so rude.

B: I know, money can make some people crazy!

Reality tv stars are people who are famous and appear on TV in unscripted situations in everyday life. To be in the public eye means to be watched and judged by other people. Toxic describes when someone or something is bad for you, mean, controlling, and manipulative.
