To my peers,

I realize this may come to a shock to many of you, and to some this may be the most spectacular news, however I must say goodbye to many of you. I will be resigning as I need to focus on my studies and other real life commitments I must uphold. I am currently a uni student (I know I should've left sooner), and the responsibilities of my studies are harder to meet when I have the commitments I have made online. So I must therefore make a choice. I will stay in the community, in the uk discord server and group, however I will be leaving all jobs I hold and all positions I am currently filling in the UK.

I would like to thank all members of the community who have become my friends over the years that I've been involved here. Leaving you guys will be the hardest part. I am not only leaving a game, but I am severing ties that connect me to a friend group. I hope you all continue to have a blast here.

Next, I would like to apologize to the party I served. I have great ambitions for you all. I wish that I could've been there to see them into fruition. If anyone uses my resignation fault the party I am truly sorry. I wholeheartedly agree with the Royalist cause and do wish them the best of luck in the future. I am furthermost sorry to the new Leader or rather PM, who has to deal with the drama that my resignation will start.

I wish you all the best of luck, and hope you all enjoy yourselves. Know that at the end of the day this is just a game, and that we all are people enjoying a game and a community built by one another.

Sincerely,

ChristianBlakeston
