Personality

Rainbow may have a lot of energy, she is oddly relaxing to be around, it's rather soothing to others. It's rare to see her upset or angry, she can be understanding and patient when needed. Rainbow is super affectionate with her family and those she grows close to; she is not shy at all to show this side of herself and will gladly share her feelings and fondness with anyone. She is often always with someone she loves, snuggling, and cuddling, letting them know how much she loves them and appreciates them. When it comes to things Rainbow likes, her eyes light up in excitement, she loves talking about anything she likes and to get others to hopefully see what she sees. She will try and try to get others to see how a certain object or activity is just so amazing. When Rainbow gets an idea on what to do, she will do all she can to prove it to her siblings as to why this idea is by far the best there is!

Rainbow is a rather rambunctious cat, always on the move, always on the go. She always has to be doing something to keep her paws occupied, she can not sit still for anything. She feels if she sits still she isn't doing anything fun or important, so she has to be moving. Rainbow does get distracted very easily, so keeping her attention for long is very rare and few in between. She can't help it when something is boring.

Thanks to her short attention span, she does often forget what she was doing once she is distracted and often forgets what she is told just moments ago. Thanks to this she often acts first before even thinking of what to do, and often gets into trouble for this. Rainbow just charges right on, not to mention she just spontaneously does things with no regard to how it affects others around her.

History

Who's to say what's impossible and can't be found

Born to Lantern of the Wolf Colony thanks to the help of Cactus of the Canyon Colony, Rainbow, Starlight, Sunrise, Foxfire, and Aurora were welcomed into the family. She had four older siblings, Torch, Firefly, Candle, and Flash, and Rainbow thought they were the coolest, they had such amazing items they had and Rainbow thought maybe she could find one to match with them one day.

So when being shown the territory, thanks to Lantern wanting them to have a safe way to explore and learn if they ever got outside of camp, Rainbow was amazed by the world around her. She gasped and chased after everything but still stayed close to Lantern.

During one of these outings, Starlight had found a weird claw and now even though she had a super duper cool item, Rainbow was a bit jealous but always told Starlight how awesome the weird claw was and how good it looked on her.

One day, Lantern sat them down and told them all about gender identity. He explained how Velvet was born a tom, but came out as nonbinary. Rainbow was still unsure what it all meant, but as Lanteren explained it more she thought she understood and thought it was amazing.

She herself still saw herself as a molly, but she wondered if that would change as time went on. Starlight came out as Librafeminine and took to being called vae/vaem as well as she/her. SRainbow was amazed Starlight figured this out while they were still so young, but Lantern told her she didn't need to rush these things. That once she is older, if she feels different they could talk together and figure things out together.
