From the desk of Pastor Sunil

For the person who knows (or wants to know Jesus) faith plays an integral part. Such people believe that God knows their ordinariness, their inadequacies, and yet he enjoys being present with them, and even working through them. They know deep in their hearts that Jesus wants to accompany them outside their comfort zones because that's the only way they will depend on him and grow; but more importantly, that they will be a blessing to someone who desperately needs it. That's courage-knowing your inadequacies and weaknesses, and yet being obedient and dependent on God to be and to do what the world thinks (and maybe even what you think) seems impossible. That's heroic living!

In Him, with prayers and Blessings,

Pastor Sunil Balasundaram
