

Myth draft #1

Long ago, there lived a girl named Arie, and her elephant named Colo. they lived alone in an enchanted forest. For as long as she could remember the forest had only darkness no light . the Sun had died away before she was born. The god of the darkness Ishbum cursed the Sun goddess Agia Because of her beauty And because she wouldn't marry him. hated him for that. Arie I knew she had to do something, Or else all the humans would die. So one day she set off on a journey To save the world . she packed her bags and left Riding Colo.

After a week of traveling she finally saw a glow in the distance She kept going until the light was in front of her. Her father was the god of the Wind so she prayed to him to lift her up to the Sun. The goddess of the sun Arie asked if she could talk to her and she said yes so Arie asked if she could try to break the curse. Agia agreed it was time to defeat ishbum. So Arie set out on another trip to burn the god of darkness. She asked her father to lift her up and fly her and Colo to the domain of Ishbum . Once they got there Arie told Colo to ride back to the sun to wait. She walked into the cold dark cave she saw Ishbum she quickly lit a match and lit the small lump on the floor she heard screaming and pleading until there was just a pile of ash. She flew back to Agia and greeted Colo. she grinned so wide when the sun lit the world. Agia asked her what she wanted and Arie said she wanted nothing so Agia let Arie And Colo live on her beautiful sun for the rest of their lives..

This how Arie and Colo saved the sun goddess, and the world from perishing.
