

My Dream State

By Phillip Osorio

I will become a man who others will follow into battle without having any second thoughts.

Someone who has complete control over his mind.

A great father, friend, son, and partner.

I am eventually going to retire my parents and enjoy my life to the fullest extent which God intended.

I will be smart, practical, strong, resourceful, God fearing, and honest.

My dream state would consist of me living on a farm growing organic whole foods, making money online, and building a community of people that can rely on each other for whatever roadblock they need help with.
