

Hi Daemang,

I'm here because I thought the idea of your Brothers In Arms (BIA) retreat was monumental.

Gathering a group of young men to find their purpose and to improve themselves commands a lot of respect.

However, I know you want to take BIA further and I can see that as clear of day.

And this new method of connecting to your customers will ensure motivation and inspiration so they can take that brave step and join your retreat.

This will give you an unfair and unique advantage over your competitors because people resonate with ideas better when it touches them on a personal and emotional level.

And I created a sample of this method below.

If you like it just respond with a "yes," I will gladly finish it off and send it to you.

WAGMI!!

All the best,