

UniqueID: 202103271724

Author: Duff Macdonald

Title: Africana

Published: 1882

Internet Archive: Always Available: volume 1 and volume 2.

Description:

There was a land with a man. This man used to go to the moors of marsh pigs. When this man with his dogs was going near a lake, they started a marsh pig, and it fell into the lake.

In the lake was a crocodile, and the man also went down there, and the crocodile caught him, without biting him.

The dogs kept searching much for their master; their master was placed in a cavern. Now the dogs in their search sometimes went to smell the earth, and they scented him. The dogs then set to dig in the earth there, and they dug three days. On the fourth they penetrated down, and their master was afraid again when he saw light. But soon he said, "These are my dogs." Let him look out, it is all light! "Now my dogs have penetrated!" And he came out and went to the village.

The villagers were mourning, and one child on going round the house met him and returned again, and said, "Mother, be quiet, don't cry, I saw my father." Its mother said, "You lie, your father was lost long ago." It said, "Mother, no, come, let us go to see."

When she went along with the child she saw him, and said, "Child, you don't lie," and she caught her husband by the arm, saying, "Come to my house."

And she said, "Explain where you went."

He said, "I went to the moors, I was hunting a marsh pig, and it sank in a pond, I also sank there, and my dogs sought me, I came out, so that you see me here."

Had it not been my dogs, the crocodiles would have eaten me. Dogs are good. People should keep dogs."

Then many people said, " Yes, yes, yes, let us get dogs. That man's dogs saved his life."

And each one there was buying dogs, each one there was buying dogs. Then people got many dogs because dogs had dug their master from the cavern.