

How to be a Good Homegroup Member

- ☐ You might not think homegroup for you. But how about giving it a 'no obligation' try?
- ☐ Please read through – "What are Homegroups For?" to get a sense of the purpose and ethos
- ☐ Please read through "How to be a Good Homegroup Leader" so you can see what the leaders is trying to do.
- ☐ Ask Belinda or Kathy about the location and times of the different groups. One group will probably be led by Simon at the chapel during the daytime.
- ☐ Keep your details in the directory up-to-date so that you can be contacted easily
- ☐ Talk to your group-leader about your preferred 'keeping in touch' method.
- ☐ You will be sent notes in advance of each meeting. Please read them through. If there is some homework (always easy) try and do it.
- ☐ Try and arrive on time.
- ☐ If you are unable to attend, please let your group leader know.
- ☐ Feel free to send prayer requests to your group leader.
- ☐ Understand and abide by the 'confidentiality' guidance for your group.
- ☐ In the group, don't talk too much.

- ☐ In the group, don't talk too little.
- ☐ Be ready to share something about your joys and struggles. (This will develop as the group builds confidence)
- ☐ Your experiences, your stories, your half-formed thoughts, your questions - are welcome in this group.
- ☐ Join in the prayer time at the end of the session. If this is daunting - it is fine to write out a few sentences in advance and then read it during the prayer time.
- ☐ Pray for the people in your group in your personal times of prayer
- ☐ Feel free to contact members of the group in between meetings to send an encouraging message, or meet up for a coffee, or invite them to your home.
