

Name: _____

Do Now: Choose if each statement is true or false by checkmarking the box.

- | | | |
|--|-------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. The federal minimum wage is $5.25 an hour. | ☐ TRUE | ☐ FALSE |
| 2. Employers are not allowed to discriminate against a person's: race, religion, sex, national origin, older age, disability or genetic information. | ☐ TRUE | ☐ FALSE |
| 3. Federally, it is illegal to fire someone for reporting discrimination. | ☐ TRUE | ☐ FALSE |
| 4. Each state has the same workers' laws. | ☐ TRUE | ☐ FALSE |

As you review the scenario assigned to you, think about how you would self-advocate. Keep in mind how the workplace may be different from the high school space.

1. You are working a part-time job, but you would like to move to full-time status. You found out your manager is looking to promote a worker to full-time status. A few of your coworkers are interested in applying. How would you approach your manager and self-advocate for yourself?
2. You just started a new job. Your coworkers seem to be very close to one another; they have a group chat in which they trade shifts and support each other with workplace issues. You feel a bit left out. How do you self-advocate and build support at work?
3. You hold a part-time cashier position as you attend school. Your manager is pressuring you to take on additional shifts because your co-workers keep calling out. You don't want to fall behind with your school work. How do you approach the situation with your manager?