

Krazybunny, (AKA The Bunny System), is eighteen years old and had a romantic relationship with us being fourteen years old. Not only we're romantically intimate, but sexually intimate as well. Here is our story.

We first met over a TikTok post over one of their alters, Tord, looking for sourcemates. We have a lot of Eddsworld introjects in our system and took the opportunity to reach out. We later met up on Discord to text each other. Without knowing each other's ages, their Tord introject and our Tom introject ended up role playing sexually. Later on we received selfies of them and they appeared a lot older than we expected. We asked for their age, to which they replied 17. We were 13 at the time, but since we had done sexual things already, we didn't want them to get grossed out by us. In the heat of the moment we replied and said that we were 15. They express that a two year age gap isn't too bad and we moved on from the subject.

We ended up getting into a romantic relationship with them, though as time went on, we found ourselves mentally fatigued. We struggled with self harm and substance abuse at the time, and while we tried to juggle our issues, we had to handle theirs along with it. We stayed on calls with each other 24/7, they had constant breakdowns on a daily basis, and with our mental capacity at the time it was too much. On our birthday, one of their persecutors had attacked us (for reasons I can't recall) and drove us to relapse. While we were under the influence, we blocked them and attempted to cut contact. They ended up contacting us through a group chat we forgot we were in and started a call. In this call, we admitted that we were 14 and wanted to break off all relationships completely. They ended up convincing us to stay in a platonic relationship with them.

Later on, we ended up getting on the topic of both of our hyper sexualities. Regrettably, we offered to provide for them and they found it enduring. Right before they turned 18, they purchased a $100 bluetooth sex toy. They explained how a 3 year age gap wasn't that bad and they would stop once they turned 18. Long story short, we didn't stop. Not only would they continue to do sexual things with us, but their mental health started to get worse. There were multiple occasions where they would do drugs or self harm because we would do drugs and self harm. They said that "if you get to fuck up your shit, we get to as well". There had been multiple occasions where they would bait us with suicide and self harm over small things such as one of our alters, Tord, locking down our system because we felt unsafe around them at the time.

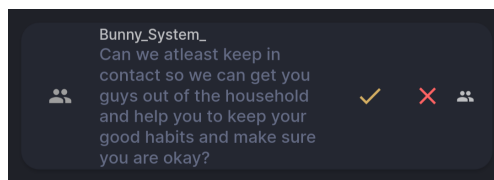

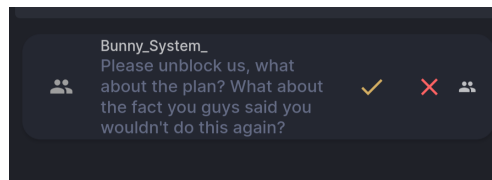

We ended up forming persecutors from the trauma they gave us. These persecutors preyed on system littles of ours, specifically one who'd been in a platonic relationship with one of Krazybunny's alters, attempting to "mature them" mentally by giving them trauma so they'd be able to adjust to the constant breakdowns. Thankfully since we had left that relationship, our system littles have been healing in therapy.

They isolated us. They'd keep us on discord calls 24/7, and whenever we asked for breaks they'd end up breaking down and saying things about how we're drifting apart, ect. They had us block several friends to the point only them and their friends were in our DMs. We weren't allowed to speak about our age ever.

They also planned to take us away from our home to stay with them. They had been saving money for a rental car and were rushing to get their driver's license before we started high school so nobody had the opportunity to "steal us away from them". They live across the country.

We've literally been only contacting you to keep asking to clear shit up. That's it. We aren't clinging to anything, also ah yes someone who isn't moving on goes "Pretty laugh" and "HE ♥♥", hate to tell you no one does that. Tho again as we have said, we felt pressured to do that shit because of the fact you guys are hypersexual and you guys would almost always get onto us. We felt that we had to provide for you. We aren't proud of letting ourselves fall into that, but fucking hell atleast acknowledge that shit. Atleast not shit talk us with lies beyond our back and get us attacked. We never even thought about doing that or have.

erm let me list off the things you did

. bought a bluetooth sex toy after you found out we were 14 and did sexual shit with us. you even stated multiple times that you ENJOYED IT ???

. had us talk you off the edge/bare topics of suicide and self harm when we minorly inconvenienced you (ex. tord shutting down the system because he didn't feel safe) with you being an ADULT and us being a MINOR with trauma around that

. kept us on calls 24/7 which was severely unhealthy and anytime we wanted to leave you'd have breakdowns or tell us that you didn't trust us because we are "drifting apart" when we literally just wanted to BREATHE and have personal space.

. of course we told you that we were okay with that only because if we said otherwise we knew you'd break down and we wanted to provide so you wouldn't feel bad

. had us block friends that inconvenienced you to the slightest degree. angel just wanted personal space and your constant negativity and breakdowns was taking a toll on their mental health so they let you down gently. they didn't blame you or anything at all

I need to know, are we broken up now?...

Sweet n' Tart Collective Today at 3:37 PM
The age gap is too large and the emotional maturity comparison gets in the way of a lot of things

Our relationship has been fine, just lately both of us have been emotional...
It's been so good until lately...I really don't want to give that up..

We love this relationship as a system and we don't want it to end...I don't
I thought the point of the relationship is to work through challenges together and grow...

The relationship was actually healthy, I liked it..
