The Brony Doc is going to Kansas City Film Festival

- <http://www.equestriadaily.com/2013/03/brony-doc-heading-to-kansas-city-film.html>
- It's been awhile since the Brony Doc came out and it's finally heading to a film festival.

If you were one of the backers for the Brony Doc, you would have known that one of the goals for the documentary was for it to be featured at a film festival. On April 11 & 13 the Brony Doc will be featured at the Kansas City Film Festival, attending the Film Festival will be producer Michael Brockhoff, executive producers John de Lancie and Lauren Faust.

All 3 producers will be holding a Q&A Panel at the Film Festival.

Get The Brony Documentary At Amazon

- <http://www.equestriadaily.com/2013/03/brony-documentary-now-available-on.html>
- If haven't watch the Brony Doc because you didn't want to download the digital copy now is your chance to get the physical copy instead.

You can get the physical version of the documentary at Amazon.com (the online shopping hub). The documentary comes in 3 version and they are, the "main edition" just the documentary , the "extended interviews" and the "complete edition" which includes the main and the extended interviews. The "main edition" and "extended interviews" will cost $24.99 and the "complete edition" will cost $39.99 + free shipping from Amazon.com.

If Amazon.com doesn't ship to your country, you can always buy the documentary from the official website of the Brony Documentary. The prices are the same and it includes shipping.

Mane6 Might Use Skullgirls Engine

- <http://www.equestriadaily.com/2013/03/as-many-of-you-have-pointed-out-mane6.html>
- Recently Mane6 added Lauren Faust to their team. Now the Skullgirls crew are offering them to use the Labzero's engine licence for free.

In a recent stream by Mike Z he stated that "they will let Mane6 use Labzero's engine for their game for free if Skullgirls indiegogo campaign reached a certain amount." and that amount is $725k.

So what does this mean? Well they is a high possibility that the Mane6 crew will not be using their previous engine to run their game and the output process for this new project is much faster.
