Subject Line - I was not making any progress...

Week after week, it all felt like a continuous cycle.

Wake up, report to work, complete busy work, go home, repeat.

Such is life in working a 9-5.

The adventure that I had dreamed to experience was out of reach.

The individuality that I was seeking was unattainable.

Living the way that I was supposed to, felt like a delusion.

This was the life of mine until I stumbled across the knowledge to break out of this cycle and decide my own outcomes.

Now I choose when to wake up, I choose the tasks that I am to accomplish, and I choose to live the way that I am meant to live.

Join me, and the many other successful men on this journey to reaching our dreams and leaving the cycle of mediocrity
