

Dyselex's TOS

Commissions

- I will do
 - different species (including human)
 - different genders
 - multiple characters
 - custom designs
- I will not do
 - nsfw
 - fetish content
 - nudity (I will make your character smooth like a Barbie doll if it's a furry that does not wear clothing)
 - kissing (I am simply uncomfortable drawing something resembling an animal in that context)

I will reject anything I'm uncomfortable with drawing

Payments

- Cashapp
 - my preferred payment method
- Venmo
 - Slight fee may be applied to cover a monetary transfer
- PayPal
 - Fees will be added to your purchase amount because PayPal takes money away and the money will also need to be transferred
- Gift cards
 - The type of gift card may vary depending on my situation at the time of purchase

These methods are subject to change at any time and depending on my current circumstances I may reject certain methods. I do not do refunds, once you've paid me I will begin work. I prefer payments in full but you may inquire about a payment plan if needed, though I don't send the final product before payment is fully completed. I do not tend to do sneak peaks either, as it makes my artwork vulnerable to theft. Though if you're unhappy with the final product or I've made some sort of mistake, I'm open to making changes to the work to correct the issue.

Adopts, YCH's, and custom designs

- I will sometimes hold auctions for these, in which I list a starting bid, a minimum increase to your bid, and an auto buy option that you may purchase to immediately claim the opening. Bids can get pricey if they go on for too long, so I'm open to payment plans for these more than I would be for an art commission. Always feel free to inquire about it, and we can discuss the terms together. Keep in mind the character will not be yours to keep or to use in any way until you have completed full payment. If you make one or more payments but haven't completed the full payment and you suddenly miss a payment or go no contact, your money will not be refunded and the character/work will be sold to someone else. In the case that contact ceases, you will have 72 hours to respond or I will assume you are no longer interested (this also applies if you are the highest bidder but I do not hear back from you). I'm generally pretty flexible and if you absolutely have to miss a payment during a payment plan and you need to extend the time in which you make said payment, just discuss it with me and we can work something out. The character/work will be yours once payment is fully completed and I'm understanding of different people's ability to make payments and personal circumstances. If there is some issue then please don't be afraid to reach out, most things can be resolved with a conversation.

Terms of use

- If you purchase an art piece you are free to print said piece and make your own merchandise, but only for personal use. Profiting off my work will not be tolerated. That being said, if you want to make my art into stickers and do sticker trades or you're in some situation where you want to give art away for free, that is okay as no profit is being made from it.
- If you buy a character, that character is yours to use, get art of, make into a suit, anything that you wish to use it for. I will not allow a profit to be made from my own personal piece where I drew the design, but if you draw your own art of the design or you commission an artist that is okay with you profiting off their work then I have no issue with you selling merchandise of that character. Of course this is only if you bought the character and thus have obtained the rights to it. It's only my own personal work that I would not like to be sold.
- If you did not purchase a character you are not allowed to copy the design of that character, rip it off, or use it in any way as you are not the owner of said character. The purchaser will obtain rights to it.
- If you repost my work I will always expect to receive credit for it. You are not allowed to cover up my watermark or make it unreadable. I never want to see my art on Pinterest or social media without my Instagram account mentioned.
- You are not allowed to trace my artwork or heavily reference it (of course if you own the character I designed then you are welcome to reference the design of your own character)

By making a payment towards your purchase you agree to all the listed terms and conditions. Please reach out to me personally if you have any questions or there's anything you're unsure about.