[Headline in Title Case]

[Dateline - City, State - Date]

[Introduction - Briefly introduce the award announcement]

[Body - Provide more details about the award, including its significance and the recipient's achievements. It's a good idea to include the following sections in your press release:

1. What: Describe the award in more detail.
2. Who: Introduce the recipient of the award.
3. When: Provide the date of the award announcement.
4. Where: Explain where the award will be presented.
5. Why: Explain why this award is important or noteworthy.
6. How: Explain how the recipient earned the award.
7. Call-to-action: Include a statement that congratulates the recipient or encourages readers to learn more about the award.]

[Boilerplate - Provide a brief summary of the company or organization presenting the award, including its history and mission statement.]

[Contact Information - Provide contact information for media inquiries or questions about the award announcement.]

[End the press release with three # symbols centered on a new line to indicate the end of the press release.]

Create the perfect press release for your organization with the power of AI writing, and content optimization. Craft attractive, engaging, and captivating press releases with Scalenut today.