Week #2 OFL Power Rankings

1. Real Madrid ^ 2 : Following week 2, Real Madrid find themselves back atop the power rankings. Led by Reborn Stox, after having a flawless week where this team only gave up 4 goals, it's seems that the defense has reach its highest level. The offense is clicking and the team is dominating. They'll look for a cruise through week 3 and ride the momentum into playoffs.

2. Barcelona v 1 - : Barcelona fall a spot, but a couple in the table. A rough week 2 filled with inconsistency. They will look to bounce back in week 3, finding their form and pushing their way back into a top 2 spot, only chasing Real Madrid.

3. Manchester United ^ 2: United are a team that have consistently stayed in the top 4. Rebounding for a rough ending to week 1, week 2 did some justice in keeping this team in contention for playoffs. The limited scoring options may catch up to this team soon though.

4. Crystal Palace ^ 2: Moving into a top 4 position helps this team, but a 2nd game night of inconsistency sees the team from reaching a higher place. Dropping points to Dortmund and being blown out by Madrid did this teams confidence no justice. We'll see if thelaw1055 can get the team back on the right path and keep them in playoff contention heading into week 3.

5. Borussia Dortmund ^ 3: After a very strong week 2, this team sits 5th on the table. l TheLastKing l is trying to put the weight of the world on his shoulders doing almost everything to carry this team to the playoffs. Top player of the year candidate, l TheLastKing l, Dortmund will pray he can continue his amazing performance heading into week 3.

6. Juventus v 4 : One of the more talented teams facing the outskirts of playoffs. The point gap is slim between 7th and 2nd and this team can jump into playoffs with a strong with 3. The team will look to Jim13 x and SlickJoey328250 as leaders this week to help bring the energy needed to reach playoffs.

7. Liverpool v3 : A team that's lost its urge to play defense. 1 of only 2 playoff contending teams boasting a negative goal differential..this team is having a hard time keeping the opponent from finding the back of the net. Can Ao l Dilo right the ship, or will he be walking alone back to the locker team after this week.

8. Manchester City ^ 2: After a transfer at the end of last week, this team brought in a striker who can finally score, x Mbappe. He carried the offense this week scoring 9 goals. A smart move by the manager, but to little too late. Although the team is all but eliminated from playoffs, this team can still play spoiler heading into week 3.

9. Arsenal -: 1 of 2 teams that is officially out of playoff contention. This team can still upset some teams playoff hopes. It was a rough first team for manager Costa I 11. We'll see if this team will continue to compete in week 3, or fold like laundry.

10. PSG v3: This team has failed to enter any stats throughout the season, and are facing an identity crisis. The team is under new management doing the same thing the old management did. Sad outcome of a team that had high potential heading into the season.