

Writing an Argument

You are going to work as a group to write your argument about there should be no homework!

You will need to write in order and read what the people have written before you. You need to add on to what the person has said, do not repeat what the other have already said.

Madi. Person 1: Introduce the issue: I agree there should be no homework because some people are really busy during the week and don't have time for pointless things like

Discuss the supporting reasons

Andrew Lam (Tang) : I think that homework shouldn't be banned; Because we need to learn more at home, it's better than watching TV all day!

ALEX.W: Finally I disagree that homework should be banned I think there should be homework because we learn from homework and we get smarter so that's better for all of us!.

At the end edit together and use these words to help you link your writing together therefore, so, because, if, means that, and, although, however.....
