

Jeffrey S. Sanow: A Journey of Leadership and Global Impact

Jeffrey S. Sanow's life story is one of resilience, dedication, and remarkable achievement. Coming from a broken family, he found his escape and purpose by joining the Peace Corps at the age of 20, where he served as an Agricultural Mechanic in Africa. This experience ignited his passion for international service and led him to complete his bachelor's and master's degrees.

Determined to continue making a difference globally, Jeffrey joined the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), serving as an intelligence officer. His illustrious career in the National Clandestine Service saw him rise to the rank of Senior Intelligence Service (SIS-1) before his retirement. During his tenure, he worked closely with senior policymakers in the Office of the Vice President and the National Security Council, supporting initiatives to prevent the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

Post-retirement, Jeffrey's expertise continued to be in high demand. He served as the head of Intelligence and Security for the US company building the US Embassy in Pakistan and as the General Manager of the third-largest security company in Uganda. His extensive experience spans complex global operations across South Asia, Southeast Asia, the eastern Mediterranean, and the Middle East.

Jeffrey's leadership and mentorship skills are exceptional. He continues to engage with a wide variety of government agencies to implement programs supporting US Government policies. As a civilian mentor, he excels in training US Army Human Intelligence Collection Teams (HCT) and as an instructor for Special Operations Forces in surveillance detection, operations, and source handling.

In addition to his hands-on experience, Jeffrey has completed advanced training in senior leadership, managing and leading change, total quality management, and the principles of highly effective people. His credentials include:

- Senior Leadership Training (April 2008)
- Managing and Leading Change (November 2006)
- Total Quality Management Executive Program at Kellogg Graduate School of Management, Northwestern University (April 1995)
- The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People by Covey Leadership Center (July 1993)

Jeffrey is also a skilled communicator, both in writing and speaking. His ability to share information, negotiate, motivate, inspire, direct, and lead has made him an impactful public speaker. He delivers compelling presentations on topics such as the Intelligence Community, Biblical principles, and is a trainer of ocean conservation scuba diving.

For those seeking a speaker with unparalleled experience in global operations, strategic planning, and leadership, Jeffrey S. Sanow offers a unique and inspiring perspective. Book Jeffrey to speak at your next event and gain insights from a true expert in international security and intelligence.

Note: For current speech, talk about current events such as the attempt on Trump. Compare to the attempts on former presidents and the safeguards in place by the secret service; how it effects the CIA, etc.; why the current secret service top rank was asked if she would step down- saying no and that the bucks stop with her and she would get to the bottom of what happened.
