

Homework Policy Key Elements

Please See BP 6154 and AR 6154 for additional details
August 2021*

Purposes of meaningful homework:

Practicing a learned skill

Valuable extension of learning time

Assist in developing Essential Outcomes, including good study habits, responsibility, self-discipline and independence.

Whole child is important; homework will allow for all aspects of social, emotional, intellectual growth and family time.

Everyone has responsibilities (Superintendent, Principals, Teachers, Parents, Students)

Differentiation agreements should be made, when appropriate.

Reading should be a part of daily life.

No homework or special projects due day after weekend or holiday breaks.

Feedback from teachers to students should be timely.

Students will be encouraged to pursue passions; teachers will suggest, but not require family time.

Time limits/special projects, developmentally appropriate.

During the 20/21 school year, Crocker Staff may assign homework that is due on Monday due to the 20/21 alternating block schedule. The Superintendent is authorized to extend this practice if the same or similar schedule continues beyond the 20/21 school year. (approved September 2020)*

Hillsborough City School District

Homework Policy - Kindergarten and First Grade

The Board believes that family time, extra-curricular activities, and self-guided time for students are critical to the development of the whole child. Accordingly, homework will be assigned to allow for all aspects of social, emotional and intellectual growth to occur, including the learning that happens through family and other social interaction outside of assigned homework.

1. Reading: The foremost expectation for homework is reading. Reading experiences will include students being read to by adults or peers, students reading with adults or peers, students reading books out loud to adults or peers, and, for advanced readers, silent reading.
2. Mathematics: Occasional assignments may occur to practice or apply a learned skill. Teachers are encouraged to suggest, but will not require, family games, activities, and discussions to support mathematical learning.
3. Individual Long-Term Projects: Teachers may assign individual long-term projects to be completed at home up to three times a year. These projects will focus on critical concepts, be broken down into manageable parts to aid students in time management, and clearly delineate the role parents/guardians will take (if any) in the completion of the project. Once completed, students will be given feedback that will guide their future learning.
4. Time Spent: While all students are different, as a general guideline students should read about twenty minutes per night. Each long-term project should take approximately one hour to complete.

Responsibilities

Teachers will:

- a. Assign homework with clear deadlines;
- b. Define what role, if any, parents/guardians will have in various types of homework assignments, especially for any long-term projects; and
- c. Actively encourage reading at all grade levels, working to instill life-long reading habits in all students.

Teachers should use their professional judgment and knowledge of their students in order to modify or adjust assignments to the needs of their students. However, if significantly less or significantly more homework is required for a student, that arrangement should be made through the mutual consent of the teacher and parent/guardian.

Parents/guardians are responsible for cooperatively supporting homework by the encouragement of and appropriate involvement with their child(ren). Parents/guardians will contact teacher(s) if their child is consistently not able to complete homework assignments independently or if challenges or questions arise. Parents/guardians will actively encourage reading at every grade level.

Students are responsible for completing assigned tasks which result in a quality work product. With the support of teachers and parents, students will bring required materials to and from school and will plan effectively for long-term projects. All students will read at home. Students will complete their assignments, including making up missed assignments, by the due date set by the teacher. Finally, students are encouraged to pursue passions and other areas of interests that are not assigned.

Hillsborough City School District Homework Policy - Second and Third Grades

The Board believes that family time, extra-curricular activities, and self-guided time for students are critical to the development of the whole child. Accordingly, homework will be assigned to allow for all aspects of social, emotional and intellectual growth to occur, including the learning that happens through family and other social interaction outside of assigned homework.

1. Reading: The foremost expectation for homework continues to be reading. Even when students begin to read with fluency and understanding, reading experiences will still include students being read to by adults or peers, students reading with adults or peers, students reading books out loud to adults or peers, and silent reading.
2. Mathematics: Occasional assignments may occur to practice or apply a learned skill. Teachers are encouraged to suggest, but will not require, family games, activities, and discussions to support mathematical learning.

Once completed, students will be given feedback that will guide their future learning.
4. Time Spent: While all students are different, as a general guideline students should read about thirty minutes per night. Each long-term project should take approximately two hours to complete.

Responsibilities

Teachers will:

1. Assign homework with clear deadlines;
2. Define what role, if any, parents/guardians will have in various types of homework assignments, especially for any long-term projects; and

3. Actively encourage reading at all grade levels, working to instill life-long reading habits in all students.

Hillsborough City School District Homework Policy - Fourth and Fifth Grades

The Board believes that family time, extra-curricular activities, and self-guided time for students are critical to the development of the whole child. Accordingly, homework will be assigned to allow for all aspects of social, emotional and intellectual growth to occur, including the learning that happens through family and other social interaction outside of assigned homework.

1. Reading: Reading continues to be a focus for homework, and students will continue to interact with books in a variety of ways. Content reading may be assigned in these grades.
2. Mathematics: Teachers may assign mathematics homework at a student's level when practice or enrichment is needed. Once a skill is mastered, a student should not be required to continue to practice the skill, other than to occasionally review this learned skill.
3. Individual Long-Term Projects: Teachers may assign individual long-term projects to be completed at home up to four times a year. These will focus on critical concepts and clearly delineate the role parents/guardians will take (if any) in the completion of the project. Teachers will support students in determining how to break down the project into manageable parts. Although students will not be required to independently break down a project, the teacher will ensure that students take on increasing levels of ownership of this task. Once a project is completed, students will be given feedback that will guide their future learning. Teachers will ensure that if the student follows a sensible plan for completion, students will be able to complete projects, reading, and all other assignments within the general time guidelines listed below.

4. Study Skills: Teachers will begin teaching specific study skills during class time. Once taught and practiced in class, students will occasionally be assigned to study for a test using one or more of the mastered techniques.
5. World Language: Teachers will assign homework to aid in the development of world language skills. Assignments will focus on skills which require practice and repetition in order to achieve mastery. Homework should be designed to be completed independently by students.
6. Other Subjects: Except as defined above, homework will be assigned only in the areas of reading/language arts and mathematics.
7. Time Spent: While all students are different, as a general guideline students should spend about forty minutes per night on all assignments, including reading, mathematics, world language, and long-term projects.

Responsibilities

Teachers will:

1. Assign homework with clear deadlines;
2. Define what role, if any, parents/guardians will have in various types of homework assignments, especially for any long-term projects; and

Hillsborough City School District

Homework Policy - Sixth through Eighth Grade

The Board believes that family time, extra-curricular activities, and self-guided time for students are critical to the development of the whole child. Accordingly, homework will be assigned to allow for all aspects of social, emotional and intellectual growth to occur, including the learning that happens through family and other social interaction outside of assigned homework.

Homework needs to be balanced across all curricular areas. Home assignments support the meaningful learning that has transpired in the classroom. Practice is a necessary component in mathematics, reading, writing, critical thinking, studying, and experiential learning; therefore homework will be thoughtfully given to promote positive student learning outcomes.

For the purposes of this policy, a “long-term project” is any activity which takes place over an extended period of time, is designed to be completed in stages or parts, and which is designed to demonstrate deep engagement with a skill or subject. Students are given detailed information about expectations at the beginning of the project, and feedback is given which is attuned to the expectations set at the start of the project. When adding long-term projects to homework, the consideration for limiting other homework in the same subject area should occur. If a collaborative assignment is to be completed in whole or in part at home, it should be organized in such a way as it does not require students to physically meet together outside of school hours.

Students will need to learn to balance their home studies with extra-curricular activities and family time; therefore, keeping communications open between school and family is critical. If a student’s homework load is unreasonable for his/her capacity on any given night, communication to the teacher(s) is welcomed and appreciated. Work can then be adjusted and individualized for student success.

Students who choose to take accelerated, advanced, or instrumental music classes will have additional responsibilities which may add to their homework.

Missed Assignments

Students who miss school work and/or homework because of an excused absence will be given the opportunity to complete all assignments and tests that can be reasonably provided. As determined by the teacher, the assignments and tests will be reasonably equivalent, but not necessarily identical to, the assignments and tests missed during the absence. Students will receive full credit for work satisfactorily completed within the period of time prescribed by the teacher.

Students who miss school work and/or homework because of an unexcused absence will be given the opportunity to make up missed assignments for reduced credit. The teacher of any class from which a student is suspended may require the student to complete assignments and tests missed during the suspension.

Students who are not able to complete assigned tasks within the assigned deadlines for reasons other than absence are encouraged to discuss this with their teacher in advance of the deadline. Teachers will have the discretion to approve extensions based on the best interest of the student.

Responsibilities

Teachers will:

1. Assign homework with clear deadlines;
2. Define what role, if any, parents/guardians will have in various types of homework assignments, especially for any long-term projects; and
3. Actively encourage reading at all grade levels, working to instill life-long reading habits in all students.

Teachers should use their professional judgment and knowledge of their students in order to modify or adjust assignments to the needs of their students. However, if significantly less or significantly more homework is required for a student, that arrangement should be made through the mutual consent of the teacher and parent/guardian.

Parents/guardians are responsible for cooperatively supporting homework by the encouragement of and appropriate involvement with their child(ren). Parents/guardians will contact teacher(s) if their child is consistently not able to complete homework assignments independently or if challenges or questions arise. Parents/guardians will actively encourage reading at every grade level.

Students are responsible for completing assigned tasks which result in a quality work product. Students will bring required materials to and from school and will plan effectively for long-term projects. All students will read at home. Students will complete their assignments, including making up missed assignments, by the due date set by the teacher.
