

Gravity falls prequel season 1 outline:

Season 1 will be 12 episodes, the first episode will start through Ford's perspective and every other episode will be through Stan's perspective. For example, first episode Ford, second episode Stan. Another detail to add would be to have a post credit scene relating to what the other twins episode will be about. Because Ford is in Gravity Falls, his perspective will be shown as classic gravity falls with fantastical adventures. On the other hand, Stan's perspective will be very gritty and gruesome. The main focus of Ford's perspective should be him getting used to the weird town of Gravity Falls and the main focus of Stan's story should be him trudging his way through life. Since the show should portray the true emotions of each character, the show should be TV-MA to allow Stan to use profanity and make the show more focused towards long time fans that are now adults. The humor of the show should stay pretty much the same and it shouldn't try too hard to be cool or edgy for older fans. The show should be allowed to depict things like drugs, firearms and maybe some other things to make Stan's bad life better. The main villain of Ford's story should be Bill Cipher but he shouldn't do any explicitly malicious things to show the viewer how Ford was manipulated by him. They could show Fiddleford's vision of him taking off his skin to feed since the maturity rating is higher. This would also allow the viewer to truly realize how bad Bill Cipher was and would make him much scarier. On the other hand, the main villain of Stan's story should be some organized crime figure. That character could be Rico who was very briefly mentioned in the flashback episode. He could be a vicious cartel leader which would allow Stan's story to have themes of regret and guilt for letting himself end up that way. They could portray Ford's feelings towards Stan being a bit resentful but deep down truly sad that their relationship was ruined. After each episode is finished, there should be a post credit scene about what the next twins episode will be about. The finale should be built up slowly and allow the viewer to be excited for when the brothers are reunited in the final episode. That last episode would be through Stan's perspective so they could make the first part of the episode Stan coming to Gravity Falls and they could make the first part funny but completely change the mood when they reunite to something much more emotional. The fight the twins have should be more violent and heartwrenching than what was depicted in the Tale of Two Stans Episode and the episode should end with an even more intense scene of Ford going into the portal.

Gravity falls prequel season 2 outline:

This season, the twins' perspective would shift from Stan's story being more silly and fantastical while Ford's story should be dark and gritty. The reason for this is because Ford would be thrown into a new dimension and he would have to commit crimes to be able to survive there. That is a parallel to how when Stan was kicked out by his father he had to do the same. This time it would be Stan getting used to Gravity Falls but instead of being just a boring copy of last season, it would show the struggle of trying to impersonate his twin brother. The fake car crash could also be depicted and it could be a cool scene to show the viewer what really happened and how Stan did it. The main villain for Ford could be a pair of agents just like Agent Powers and Agent Trigger. This time, there would be a unique villain and he would be the main agent that antagonizes Stan while Agent Powers could be Trigger's counterpart and would be sort of a sidekick. They would be there to investigate the car crash and to check out the weird parts of town. They could be reminiscent of Agent Milton and Agent Ross from Red Dead Redemption. Ford's villain would be Bill Cipher again but this time it would be very obvious that he is an antagonist. According to Journal 3, Ford went to the Nightmare dimension and had escaped with other refugees. After escaping, he went to build the quantum destabilizer to kill Bill. The main focus of Ford's story could be his different adventures to get parts for the weapon and each episode on him could be about getting the part. The main focus of Stan's story should be running and maintaining the Mystery Shack. The season should have 13 episodes instead and The twins's last episode should Stan deterring the agents and Ford finishing the weapon.. The 13th episode should be a more feel good one and it should time skip to right before Dipper and Mable arrive. It should show Grunkle Stan getting the Shack's attic ready for them and all the beloved characters from the original series should be shown. The final scene should be a cool back and forth sequence of Ford preparing to defeat Bill with the quantum destabilizer and the twins arriving in gravity falls.
