

MY DREAM STATE

10:05 PM...

Lux lights matched with a dark mysterious outfit.

Fat cigar (Only this time it's my own brand)

Sexy island girl with the softest voice. Her laugh — even softer.

We're heading to dinner with my group of mates and theirs.

Good physique.

Open body language

Not a pimple in sight.

Eye contact says all that needs to be said.

High quality thoughts exchanging minds through eloquent and stimulating conversations.

When dinner's done. Black cards exchange hands and everyone disappears to a new location like Batman. The night has only just begun.

Fast forward to a new location off the coast.

12:43 AM...

Bonfires. Belly dancers.

10 figure - 7 figure devilishly seductive high value males sharing a gathering space with short shorts to show off their massive quads, imported Cuban white sand and big bootie feminine cuties that look to them with intense adoration and submissiveness.

"There he is!", I say.

"Mr. Andrew Tate!"

"I must say meeting the man himself in person takes the proper words out of my mouth like you couldn't imagine..."

"Pleasure to meet you", he replies — Calm as you like.

"I am a product of The Real World. Just wanted to give you my flowers in person. Again, I can't put to words how much you opened my eyes"

He then asks me, "Lovely to hear, how did you make your first $100?"

“Through the copywriting course. In fact, till this day, I have not formally met or even shown appreciation to my copywriting professor — who happens to be your namesake.”

“Aha, you’re in luck. He’s right there, you can meet him right now.”

Not a word spoken.

One look and professor Andrew knows exactly what this stare means.

I’m sure he’s had over a hundred at this point.

We exchange pleasantries and reminisce to the old days of bootcamps, legions and power calls.

The war room members can never be stopped.

What a time to be alive.

I excuse myself as it dawns on me how far I’ve come.

Only God knows where I would have been had I ignored the email I received from the Top G a day before New Year’s Eve of 2023.