Working in a group usually accomplishes more than working alone.
Team members say what they really mean.
All team members participate in making decisions about the work of the team.
All team members feel free to share their ideas with the team.
The team handles conflicts in a calm, caring, and supportive manner.
Teams tend to agree upon clear criteria for evaluating the outcomes of the team's effort.
Teams come up with creative solutions to problems.
In team there is usually more of a WE feeling than a ME feeling.
The goals of the team are clearly understood by all team members.
Teamwork is a personally meaningful experience for me.
The work I have done on teams was valued by the other team members.
