Bravo Six, Going Online (TM)

Introducing Bow Braver's Thesis: The Website Best viewed on desktop browser. Yeah...

After sleeping on it for over a year, waiting for information to be as stable as it can be and reading through literally every bow discussion, it's here! Bow Braver's Thesis finally has a web version... with some of the worst web-programming approaches and UX design one could ever imagine. Later than never, I supposed? Kinda feels like wasted effort when NGS is coming in hot somehow. Yeah...

The site works more like a ghetto database for ease of access and it should be identical to here. Fuck Google Docs sometimes, and at least it's lifted from pages curse now. As such, I have suspended the Google Doc guide with this update notice. A copy will be made and all pages will be removed EXCEPT this page due to links posted everywhere.

With PSO2 Live + coming to an end, the guide won't be getting any update either other than stealth adjustments. Because one man could do so much, if you find some mistakes or have some doubts during the journey through that retarded website, don't hesitate to report them to me. The Github page does take time to update, so it's gonna take a while lmao.

It's made in a short time, so expect something to be broken in your browser view. I could have just asked some good programmers out there to help, but in times like these, we all have more important things to attend to.

Again, thanks for living with my bullshit, and I hope the ghetto website can help you try to understand this damn class and weapon.
