Introduction to Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support

What is Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support (PBIS)?

PBIS is a philosophy that uses positive behavior support to address behavior. It systematically and consistently acknowledges and reinforces positive student and staff behavior. School-wide rules, procedures, and expectations are taught regularly and consistently throughout the school year. Discipline procedures are consistently implemented across the school site. Data is used to regularly create focused behavioral interventions to help students succeed academically, socially, and emotionally.

Three Tiers

Using Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support, behavior is addressed on 3 levels.

Tier 1: Should meet ~80% of students' needs. School-wide support for all students through...

- Consistent positive reinforcement of common rules, expectations, and procedures inside the classroom and across the school environment. Systematic rewards are used.
- Social skills instruction highlighting expected behaviors in given settings and situations. This is done through class discussions and bi-weekly Character Assemblies.
- Analysis of school-wide data to plan for improvement.

Tier 2: Additional support for students whose needs are not met through tier 1 interventions (~15% of all students). Supplemental target intervention for identified students or student groups through...

- Behavior contracts
- Social skills groups
- CARE team referral
- Student Success Team (SST) meetings

Tier 3: Intensive intervention for individual students whose needs are not met through tier 1 and 2 interventions (~5% of students). This may include:

- Counseling
- Behaviorist observation
- Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP)

School-Wide Rules

Why do we have school-wide rules?

Having a few, simple, positively stated rules facilitates the teaching of behavioral expectations across school settings because students learn the same language. 3 simple rules are easier for students to remember and adults to reinforce. Instruction focusing on a few simple rules improves teaching and consistency across staff through the use of a common language.

Positively stated rules are important. Research has shown that recognizing students for following rules is even more important than catching students breaking rules. By stating rules in a positive manner, students are more likely to be caught engaging in the appropriate behavior. Positive reinforcement supports students' use of appropriate behavior.

It is important that the rules are broad enough to cover all potential problem behaviors. Within the selected rules, Pleasant Hill Elementary believes that students can be taught all specific behavioral expectations across all school settings. For example:

- Cleaning up your spill in the cafeteria is being safe. Someone could otherwise slip on the spill and get hurt.
- Walking silently in the hallway is being respectful. Other classes may be in session and trying to focus.
- Returning the P.E. equipment when the bell rings is being responsible. The equipment must be properly cared for so all students can use it.

The Behavior Matrix applies the school-wide rules across each school setting.

All staff and students are expected to know the school-wide rules. Our school site is evaluated twice a year to ensure staff and students know the school-wide rules. Regular teaching using the school-wide rules is part of the school culture.

School-wide rules, posters

Posters are displayed in every room in the school - classrooms, cafeteria, hallways, front office, etc. - to prompt everyone on campus to follow and reinforce the school-wide rules.

School-Wide Rules Poster

Teaching school-wide rules, behavioral expectations, and routines

Starting the year off right

During the first week of school, the focus is on teaching school-wide behavioral expectations and routines to all students across all school settings. The PBIS team organizes a set of events to provide students and staff with an entertaining, memorable, and positive first week of school for everyone to learn the rules, expectations, and routines throughout the school. This requires support and participation from all adults on campus.

What are routines?

Routines are the procedures and processes that students and staff are expected to follow in order for things to run smoothly and so problems can be prevented. Examples of routines include: entering the cafeteria, purchasing food, entering the classroom, checking out a library book, etc. Choosing routines is a thoughtful process: some routines can inadvertently set up students to engage in misbehavior. Routines should be taught and reinforced during the first week of school so everyone knows and can follow the same set of procedures to support a safe and positive environment at Pleasant Hill Elementary.

Why teach the rules, expectations, and routines during the first week of school?

It is important to teach the rules, expectations, and routines during the first week of school so everyone knows what is expected. We cannot assume that students or adults know the rules, expectations, or routines.

Booster sessions: re-teaching the rules, expectations, and routines

Rules and routines cannot simply be taught once. It is important to hold booster sessions to review the expectations. Booster sessions are especially helpful after returning from a long break or in areas that are continually problematic. Booster sessions may include re-teaching expectations, increasing the number of acknowledgement tickets, altering the reinforcers available, having a contest between classes to award a class who does the best with identified expectations or areas, etc.

PHE Passport

The PHE Passport is a visual cue to assist staff in teaching students the expectations for the different areas of campus; classrooms, hallways, cafeteria, library, playground, computer lab, assembly, and office. The students bring the Passport to the office after an area's expectations are taught and receive a stamp in that section. Once the Passport is complete (all 8 lessons have been taught) the class is entered into a drawing to win a prize.

Acknowledgement System

Why recognize expected behavior?

It is not enough just to teach expected behavior: it needs to be regularly recognized and rewarded. Research has shown that recognizing students for engaging in expected behavior is more important than catching students breaking the rules. Research on effective teaching has found that teachers should engage in a rate of 4 positive interactions with students to every 1 negative interaction (4:1 ratio). It is easy to get caught up focusing on catching students engaging in negative behavior. The goal of an acknowledgement system is to increase the number of positive interactions that all school staff have with students.

At Pleasant Hill Elementary we use Dino Dollars, Bronto Bucks, and Dino-MIGHTs to acknowledge students for appropriate behavior. (1 Bronto Buck = 5 Dino Dollars). Students earn a Dino Dollar or Bronto Buck for following the school rules. An entire class earns a Dino-MIGHT for following the school rules.

When recognizing a student or a class, it is important to identify the specific behavior the student engaged in. To promote expected behavior, it is crucial for students to understand when and why they are being acknowledged.

“Joe, thank you for picking up the books that someone knocked on the floor. You were being responsible and it helped me out. Here is a Bronto Buck.”

Who hands out acknowledgement tokens?

All school staff - including classified staff, administration, and substitutes - should have and distribute all types of acknowledgement tokens.

How many tokens should be handed out?

All students and classes should have opportunities to earn all types of acknowledgement tokens, so everyone feels like they have a good chance of being recognized for good behavior. ALL students engage in appropriate behavior some of the time, and ALL students benefit from positive recognition! Each student should be able to earn $1 per day.

How often should tokens be cashed in?

Approximately every two weeks, students will have an opportunity to visit the Student Store and use Dino Dollars/Bronto Bucks to purchase trinkets and/or privilege passes. Two classes are selected at random each week through the Dino-MIGHT raffle and earn extra recess. After the weekly raffle, Dino-MIGHTs are returned to teachers and saved for the end-of-trimester cash out.

Management

Each student's purchases will be placed in a brown paper bag labeled with the student's name. The bags will be placed in a plastic box and delivered to your classroom later that day. If the plastic box is left in your room, please kindly return it to the office as soon as possible.

1st & 2nd grade teachers: To ensure that all students are able to shop during the brief window, please staple your students' dino dollars in stacks of 10. It is also helpful if the total number of dino dollars is written on the outside of each student's envelope. Thanks for your help

Soul Shoppe Tools: “I” Message and Clean Up

“I” Message

This is a chance to speak up and ask for what you need in any situation without blame or accusation. The first step is identifying how you feel when a certain thing happens, followed by asking for what you need to resolve the situation.

I feel ...
 When people ...
 I need ...
 Will you please ... ?

Example:
 I feel hurt
 When people grab the ball from me
 I need to play nicely
 Will you please ask before you grab?

Clean Up

This is a very thorough apology. Many times in schools we have the students say they are sorry but it often sounds insincere and is not enough. The Clean-Up takes it to the next step to ask what is needed to resolve the issue, then making a commitment and asking for forgiveness. This tool has saved friendships, changed chronic behaviors, and allow people to really listen to each other.

I know that I ...
 I apologize.
 What can I do to make it right?
 Next time I will ...
 Will you forgive me?

Example:
 I know that I grabbed the ball out of your hands.
 I apologize.
 What can I do to make it right?
 (wait and listen for the answer)
 Next time I will ask before I grab
 Will you forgive me?

Soul Shoppe Tools: Peace Path and Peacemakers

Peace Path

Before the students start resolving their conflict through the Peace Path, make sure they “Stop & Breathe” and are calm enough to talk it out. If they are still too worked up when they start, they will not be able to think or articulate what they need.

- Stop: collect themselves
- Breathe: take several deep breaths until they calm down.

1. Get ready.
 - a. Make sure students are calm and ready to solve the problem. Ask:
 - i. “Do you need help?”
 - ii. “Are you ready to solve this peacefully?”
 - iii. “Let’s go to the Peace Path”
2. Three rules
 - a. “These are the rules.”
 - i. “Treat each other with respect.”
 - ii. “Listen without interrupting.”
 - iii. “Work to solve the problem.”
 - b. Ask each student: “Can you agree to these rules?”
 - c. Once you have agreement, move to the next step.
3. Be the guide & problem solved
 - a. You will see two different colored feet: yellow and blue. One student stands on the first set of yellow feet and the other on the first set of blue feet, facing each other.
 - i. Yellow speaks first, finishing the sentences: I feel... When...
 - ii. Blue then answers: I know that you feel... When...
 - iii. Make sure students listen to each other.
 - b. “OK, let’s solve this problem. The person on the yellow feet will always speak first. Everyone gets a turn. Now, use the words on the path, and begin.”
 - c. For younger students, you will need to guide them and ASK them through the path.
 - i. “How did you feel?”
 - ii. “What actually happened?”
 - iii. “What do you want them to do instead?”
 - iv. “What will you do next time?”
 - v. “Is there anything else?”
4. Put it down & shake hands
 - a. As students are on the last step, ask:
 - i. “What will you do from now on?”
 - ii. “Please shake hands.”
 - iii. “Great job! Please tell others this problem is solved.”
 - iv. “We will check back and make sure everything is still OK.”

v. “Leave in peace.”

If students can’t solve the problem or conflict

Occasionally two students will not be able to come to a satisfactory conclusion with their problem. There will be times, even though we want them to figure it out on their own, when adults have to step in and guide them further. Here are some strategies:

- Ask what they can agree on for the time being.
- Wait until next recess and go through the Peace Path again.
- Let them know that not all problems are solved, but they can agree to get along and try to work on it.
- Let their teacher know what is going on and see if they can help solve it.
- Ask each what they really need (give suggestions) in order to solve this issue and help them work it out.

Peacemakers

A small group of charismatic student Peacemakers (upper grade students) are specially trained to help other students solve problems by walking through the Peace Path at recess, lunch, or even during class (using a mini Peace Path visual). Unlike other conflict managers, Peacemakers do not roam the area calling out problems and getting kids “in trouble.” Instead, Peacemakers are trained and introduced to the school population as a resource that students can call upon as they need, or as adults deem necessary.

Consequence System

Role

Consistent and fair discipline procedures are crucial to a successful consequence system. Students must be respected throughout the disciplinary process. Consequences should focus on teaching, restorative practices, or logical consequences as much as possible. In providing consequences, staff is mindful of the instructional time students miss - which should be as little as possible.

In order to maximize student instructional time, staff are encouraged to deal with problem behavior in the classroom as much as possible using a clear discipline plan, which must include: teaching expectations and routines, providing incentives for positive behavior, and clear responses to problem behavior. For pervasive problem behavior, teachers are advised to seek assistance or additional consultation via contact with school administration.

School-Wide Information System

Office referrals and suspensions are entered into a secure, confidential database that provides access for administrators to track school-wide or student-centered trends. This helps the PBIS team make informed decisions about school-wide programming and provide support as needed.

Other Means of Correction

Description

The following is a list of possible alternatives to suspension that may be utilized by administrators. The list is not comprehensive, but provides examples of other means of correction that can be used as a replacement of suspension.

Tier 2 Intervention Inventory

Tier 2 interventions are implemented for students who do not respond to the universal intervention. A Tier 2 intervention is intended to efficiently serve multiple students at one time. Tier 2 interventions should also be readily available for student participation quickly after referral (< 7 days). While matching Tier 2 interventions to student needs is important, Tier 2 interventions should not require a significant amount of individualized assessment or intervention planning. A coordinator with the adequate time and resources to manage student referrals to the intervention and coordinate implementation is necessary, as is a data system for evaluating student progress and efficacy of the intervention.

Check In Check Out Program Description

The CICO Program is a school-wide, check-in, check-out prevention program for students who are starting to engage in problem behavior. The goal of the program is to prevent students who are acting out from escalating further, and to provide them with more frequent feedback on their behavior to prevent future problem behavior.

➤ Which students do well on the CICO Program?

Students who you are concerned about who may or may not be acting out already, but are not currently engaging in dangerous (e.g., extreme aggression, property destruction) or severely disruptive behavior (e.g., extreme noncompliance/defiance) would be good candidates for the CICO Program. Students who have problem behavior across the day and in different settings are good candidates for the program versus students who have trouble only in one setting or one time period.

➤ How do teachers participate in the CICO Program?

Teacher(s)/support staff provide both verbal and written feedback to students at pre-determined times throughout the day. These adults are not the student's classroom teacher. The feedback is quick and instructional.

➤ Who is responsible for checking students in and out?

An assigned teacher/support staff is in charge of checking students in and out on a daily basis.

➤ How are students selected for CICO?

Please submit a CARE referral for any students you are concerned about. In collaboration with the teacher, the CARE team will determine whether the CICO Program is appropriate or whether another intervention would be more appropriate.

➤ What is the family's role?

A daily report goes home with the CICO student each night. The student is encouraged to show the report to parents/guardians, obtain their signature, and return the report to school during check in the next day. Families are encouraged to acknowledge their student's efforts and successes, and refrain from punishment when their child temporarily slips up. A weekly check in with the child's teacher or CICO Program point person is highly encouraged.

➤ How long are students on the CICO Program?

At a minimum, the CARE team looks at each student's data at the end of each trimester to determine if he or she is ready to be gradually exited from the CICO Program. Since there are a limited number of students that can receive the intervention, it will be important to fade students off as they become more independent in managing their own behavior.

➤ How is student progress monitored?

A designated teacher/staff member keeps track of the daily points earned and charts the progress for each student. The CICO data entry person will enter two data points per day per student on CICO: the percent of possible points earned daily & a cumulative graph for meeting the daily goal. On a weekly basis, the CARE team reviews the data to determine if the program should stay the same, be adjusted, or be terminated.

➤ What about students who show some success, but continue to struggle?

Additional supports are given. This may include:

- Review tier 1 supports and fidelity: behavior matrix, Dino Dollars/Bront Bucks, etc.
- Identify challenging areas and common antecedents.
- Change mentor.
- Change goals.
- Change incentives.
- Increase frequency of check-ins.

➤ What do students do with their earned points?

Points are totaled at check-out time and deposited in the students CICO account. Points are not taken away for problem behavior. Points earned are saved until the student wants to trade them in. Pre-determined spending times and items are decided upon in advance.
