Irish Claddagh Necklace: 	This necklace was given to me by my grandparents when they came back from Ireland. This represents me and my culture in many ways. I love to wear it whenever I can, because it's very special to me. My ancestors and great grandparents lived in Ireland, and this necklace was bought only a few miles from where my great grandmother's house is. This necklace is very special to me.
Glasses: 	I have had my glasses for about 10 and a half years, and they have taught me many lessons, and shaped who I am today. They gave me respect for other people who have them, and showed me that it was okay to be different. I wouldn't be who I am today without them. Sometimes it's not easy wearing them, but I'm happy with them because they've made me who I am.
