

Ringmaster: It's December 1st, and you all generally know what that means!

SC276: It means Santa Ring comes to reward "good" ridders for their behavior over the past year with terrible Christmas and holiday-related fanfics. Assuming he finds any.

Ringmaster: Very, very close. But that's... not for another week.

SC276: ...Que?

Ringmaster: See, there's a certain other upcoming event that I wanted to celebrate for the first week, because it's pretty exciting.

SC276: The second installment of Handbook for Mortals came out?

Ringmaster: Nah, if that happened we'd already be like two parts into that right now. Instead, we're taking this time to celebrate one of the most anticipated video game releases of the year... Super Smash Bros. Ultimate.

SC276: Oh right, that. Now we're talking. Ultimate's looking to be a killer entry from the way it's been hyped up. I'm personally looking forward to see what the machinima community will do with it. ...Wait. Oh no. Oh no. With this author?!

Ringmaster: Yep. It's not an MLP fic either, or even specifically related to Ultimate. No, I did a little "mining" to find this absolute dumpster fire of a fic, based on none other than the competitive scene's favorite, Melee. Any other details will have to be revealed on the riff's actual page, just click SC's little Spanish exclamation up there to jump to the main document.

SC276: This is bound to be a real treat, as if anything by this guy could ever be more than a trick. Hope you like fruitcake.