SGA Questions

Please attach pages as needed.

- 1. Can you start by introducing yourself and telling us your major and where you're from?

Hey, my name is Garrett Wolff, and I am a kinesiology major at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette. I was born and raised in Alexandria, LA and Leesville, LA, but since moving down to Lafayette in college, it has been very homey and I have embraced it as my home.

- 2. When are you expected to graduate?

Despite being a first time freshman, my graduation date is looking at being either Fall of 2026 or Spring of 2027.

- 3. What organizations are you involved with on campus or in the community?

I am currently a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity where I hold the position of member development. I am also a part of the orientation staff where I serve as an Orientation Leader.

- 4. What qualities do you believe you possess that set you apart from other candidates applying for this position?

I believe the qualities that set me apart from other candidates would have to be my adaptability and notice of detail. To elaborate, I often find myself in a professional setting where I start off less experienced than the other people around me, and the first thing I begin to do is watch them and their actions to see how they operate in the setting. From there I take the most optimal traits from each of the people I have observed and apply them to the way I work. This eventually leads to me finding my footing much quicker than a normal new pickup. Another quality I feel sets me apart is the fact I am willing to admit when I mess up, and then proceed to step back and fix whatever I have messed up. Admitting you have done something wrong is the first step to having healthy communication, and presenting to your peers your maturity.

- 5. What does leadership mean to you?

The main quality I attach to leadership is the ability and willingness to lead by action and not by command. Often you will find the best leaders are those who move in silence with their actions. As a person who finds themselves at new jobs and new things, I always admire and notice that everyone works better with the guys that take the initiative to show that they are not above the members that are not in leadership positions and will do the same job as them. However at the same time, this kind of leader I envision also delegates what needs to be done. He will show the person he delegates to a position the initial way to do their task, but eventually trusts them to do it on their own and starts to work and collaborate with others to work towards the bigger goal.

6. If selected, are you able to make SGA meetings on Monday at 5:00pm

Yes, I currently have no obligations on Monday evenings.

7. What does being a Ragin' Cajun mean to you?

Being a Ragin' Cajun means that you value your community over yourself. When you value your community and your school ahead of yourself it tends to create a culture that follows you around throughout and after school where you carry on as a Ragin' Cajun alumni.

8. What are things you would like to see improve in your college?

I would like to see an expansion on housing on campus. Due to the constant incline of the freshman classes, we have run out of dorms to house the freshman, which led to the school having to rent out two hotels to house the excess freshmen. However on a scholarly level, I would like to see an addition of classes to be added to the classes we can register for. I've seen where multiple people are required to take a certain class and the unfortunately cannot because all the classes are full. This can throw a wrench in students' timelines they have mapped for a themselves.
