

Hey, Dr (Name),

I discovered your chiropractic clinic while searching on Google Maps, and I was intrigued to check out your website.

As an American Christian, I loved to see “God~Family~Country” in your About section.

Many people will resonate well with your values.

However, in order to maximize this connection, I realized that your website could use a huge upgrade.

So, I decided to write you a brand new landing page to try for your Home tab.

This landing page is descriptive of your values and establishes most of what you have on your website.

What do you think about it?
