

Death By Bikini - 12 Wins in Greece, 50%

(The following interviews took place on private beaches in Kauai, Hawaii, near the headquarters of the Death By Bikini stable. The interviews occurred approximately 17 days after UCC XII in Greece)

UCC XI in Moscow was a profitable event for Death By Bikini. In a stable which now boasts 24 members, Moscow provided 16 victories. Things weren't quite so smooth in Greece, with only 12 girls taking away a win. While some UCC stables may be content with a 50% win rate, I doubt Death By Bikini will take a "cup half full" approach to this result.

As usual, I was granted one on one interviews with all 12 winners in Greece. That would include the three new rookie winners, for whom this was only their second UCC event.

Following on from UCC XII, the Bikini girls will take part in the Fourth UCC Tournament Series. I'm intending to use this interview session to talk to some of the girls about how well they think they'll perform in The Caribbean.

In particular two women who will be Death By Bikini competitors in a non-swimsuit attire tournament.

Myla Dalbesio, will be the tenth seed in the Heavyweight Lingerie Tournament, and Camille Kostek will be seeded 13th in the Middleweight Workout Tournament. Both girls suffered losses in Greece.

I spoke to Kostek on the beach, "I'm looking forward to fighting it out in my gym gear. I'm lucky to be sponsored by Reebok and the outfit they have given me looks so sick. Yeah, it'd be cool to fight in a different bikini, but at least in the workout tournament I won't have to face any of my stablemates."

Dalbesio saw the upcoming tournament in the same light, "Not having to worry about fighting a friend makes this tournament a lot easier to focus on. In the previous three tournaments my first round fight has always been against another DBB member, and I've lost each and every time. It sucks to go out in the first round."

"But this time I'll be going it alone and my first match will be against Katy Perry. I've had a terrible run of losses this year, I really do hope that in my lingerie I'll be able to get myself back on track."

Dalbesio isn't the only Bikini fighter who is struggling to find winning form in 2021, Rose Bertram lost again in Greece. "At least I made it to the third round against Ameerah al-Taweel, but at the moment I really do suck and I'm super pissed off. Alexandra Daddario is my first round tournament opponent, holy shit I better beat her."

There were other lowlights in Greece, Chrissy Teigen lost to a submissive move from Ana de Armas. But at least she isn't the lowest ranking DBB member, that unfortunate title goes to Dalbesio.

Jessica Gomes failed to win against Jisoo from Blackpink, she is however seeded third in her upcoming tournament. There's every chance she can pick up some valuable wins against the other featherweight swimsuit fighters.

Barbara Palvin and Kate Bock recorded losses at UCC XI, both ladies losing to fellow stablemates. Something that we're all getting far too used to.

The two biggest and brightest Death By Bikini fighters to drop the ball in Greece were Lais Ribeiro and Robyn Lawley. Before chatting to the dozen winners, I spoke briefly to both of them.

Lawley, "I'm frustrated. Frustrated with a capital F. The two losses in a row to Kylie Jenner hurt, but I was sure I could at least win against Eugenie Bouchard. Fuck, was I ever wrong. I may have lasted five rounds, but for what? I was well and truly beaten in Greece. Now the official ranking has me just in the top 20 and I won't be heading into my tournament as top seed. I've given that up to Kate Upton. Is there a silver lining in any of this? I don't think so."

Ribeiro wasn't any happier, "I feel like Julianne Hough just played me in Mykonos. I need to win my tournament. I can't let someone like Emily Ratajkowski beat me in the final round. I need to win and I'll be giving this event every single thing I have. Just watch me."

There were other Death By Bikini members who were unable to win in Greece, but for now my focus would turn to the dozen women who did win. I began my usual walk along the Pacific coastline and found them, one by one.

"Although the stable may not have been as productive in Greece as we were in Moscow, I'm still happy with the results. I'm 100% happy with my last three matches and I think I've finally managed to get that monkey off my back. And by monkey, I mean Victoria Silvstedt."

"I hope to avoid facing her during the Swimsuit tournament. I'm the top seed and this feels like my best chance for taking home a tournament title. Of course tournaments are very hard to predict. They're extremely physical and taxing on the body, no one walks away from a UCC tournament without a few bumps and bruises. Some don't even walk away at all."

"My game plan is to take this one fight at a time. Eliminate Debbie Dunning as quickly as possible and then focus on round two. No doubt I'll have to fight one of my stablemates, but at least there's only one Centerfold Angel to deal with."

"Maybe this event will be Silvstedt's last UCC tournament ever. Even old apes need to retire at some point."

Sports Illustrated

"I can't believe that I'm the second DBB member you're interviewing. Have I truly managed to climb so high in the rankings ladder that I'm better than all those other girls?"

"Ah. Who am I kidding? I'm doing OK, but the reason you're meeting with me so early on is because Lais and Robyn lost in Greece. I'm not even in the top 50 in the UCC."

"Should I be upset about that? Maybe I shouldn't. I mean, I'm more highly placed than Irina, Jessica and Samantha. But then again, in my weight division I'm only ranked 15th. At that rate I'll never get a divisional title shot."

"However, if I can do really, really well in the tournament I could fly up the rankings. On the other hand, if I do poorly, like lose to Lily in the first round, I'll tumble all the way down."

"These rankings are giving me a migraine. Ugh."

"I knew it. I called it before we even arrived in Greece to compete at Hadrian's Reservoir in Athens. There was no way Barbara was going to be able to win against me. It's a simple case of a bikini versus a one piece swimsuit, a bikini will always win."

"I'm sorry Barb, the outcome of our fight was predetermined by the Bikini Gods. Hey babe, I'm not taking anything away from you. You look fucking hot as anything in that green onepiece, with the cutaways, but please switch your fight attire to bikinis. I promise you'll win more matches."

"Anyway, onto the tournament for us welterweights. Hey, what do you know? Good old Raquel 'Mucky Pig' Pomplun is throwing her hat back in the cage and pulling on her bikini once again. She got away with winning this tournament last time, no fucking way is she pulling off that stunt again."

"Mucky Pig, prepare to be roasted!"

"Shit."

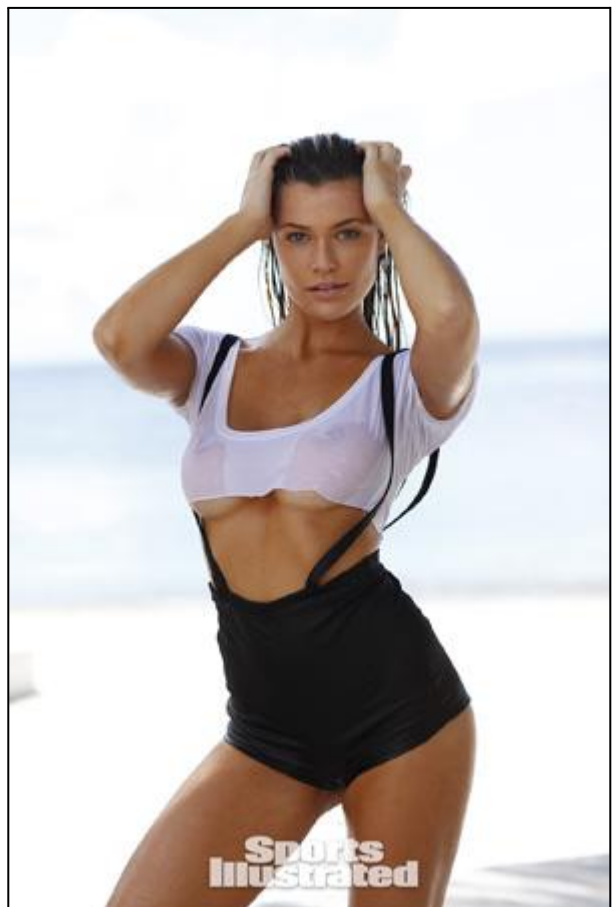

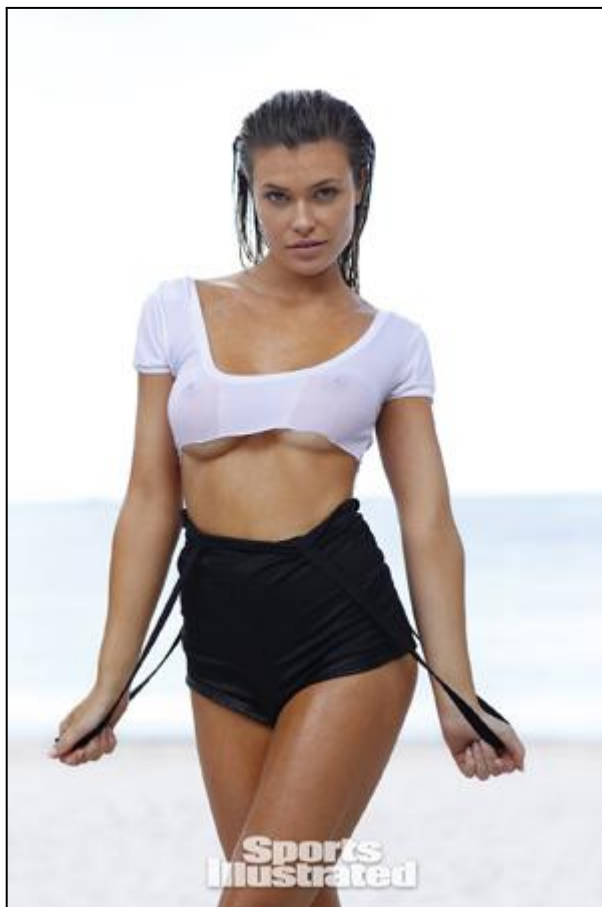

"I can't believe I was beaten by Rebecca Romijn at UCC XI and because of that I had to fight shitty Yasmine Bleeth at UCC XII. Of course I ripped her apart like she was nothing."

"Now I'm in for more shit."

"First round of the tournament and I have to beat one of our new rookies, Haley Kalil. She's pretty good, she's quite impressive, she knows how to throw a punch and lock in a submission. But..."

"But...I do not want a repeat of my shit tournament in Santorini. Heather Tom (who?) knocked me out in round one."

"So, I'm really, really sorry Haley. You're a good kid, but no fucking way do I need another shit tournament. You're not getting past the first round. You're gonna earn that one, kiddo."

"I'd hoped that my match with Kate Bock in Greece would have provided me with the type of challenge I was craving. I won a close contest that would prepare my mind and body for the upcoming tournament."

"Kate let me steamroll her. I out fought her in every aspect of our fight. I think I'm pleased that it was only three rounds. I didn't want to embarrass her any further."

"Will we meet again during the lightweight division tournament? I guess it's possible, but to be honest I'm more interested in fighting Genevieve or Lais."

"It's time for this little Russian to make her move!"

"Basically, I just don't care. You are forgettable."

"Candice King? Happy Hour Fight Club? I thought I was a B-List celebrity, but my first round match up is against a woman who works as a cocktail waitress?"

"Oh my. What has the UCC become?"

"I won two cage fights in a row! I was near perfect against Elizabeth Hurley. They call her 'Tough Liz'. Wow. Such brave. Much scary."

"Not."

"It's pretty cool fighting someone with a nickname. The time before I fought 'The Slag' and now 'Tough Lizard'. My first round in the middleweight tournament is against Rebecca Romijn. Does she have a nickname?"

"Oh. She does? It's 'Becky'? Well, that's a bit boring. Let's say that if I beat her then she can get a new nickname. Maybe something like, 'Bag of Hammers'?"

"Hi. This is our first interview, so allow me to introduce myself. I am Robin."

"That's all you need to know right now. We should concern ourselves with my next UCC event. Which, of course, is the Fourth Tournament Series."

"I shall be competing in the featherweight swimsuit tournament, alongside Jessica Gomes. My first opponent is Kelly Packard. Is she the oldest woman in my tournament? Maybe Georgia Luzi is older?"

"I know the UCC operates in an alternate timeline where age doesn't seem to matter. That's why dinosaurs like Alexandra Paul and Pamela Anderson still look...average."

"Maybe next event I will be fighting Betty White."

Haley Kalil

"I don't think I fully realized just how often I would be fighting women from my own stable. In only my second UCC bout I had to knock out Camille."

"My first opponent in my tournament is Samantha Hoopes. I have a lot of respect for Samantha. Not only is she a Goddess, but she sure knows how to pack a powerful punch. If I don't want to go home early, I'm going to have to duck and weave. Maybe if I can lock in a Boston Crab, I'll take a first round victory."

"I hope I can beat her. That would be nice."

"But, we'll still be friends afterwards!"

"Maybe I was just looking for the right opponent to fight against. Thank you Sofia Bush."

"I doubt I'll have such an easy match against Bella Thorne. Our fight will go one for three ways."

"One: She knocks me out in the first couple of seconds of round one."

"Two: We battle it out over five rounds and then she knocks me out with only a few seconds to go."

"Three: We have five rounds of clicheing and rolling around on the canvas, then go to points and I win because I look so much hotter in my bikini than she does."

"Also. She's a slut, and I'm not."

"Hi. If you are still reading these interviews and not just looking at our photos, I just have a few points to make."

"Club B.A.D. is really quite bad overall. I wish their fighters would try harder. There are some super cute girls in their stable, but they have no spirit. Look at Karishma Sharma. Super-duper cute, but has lost all 10 of her UCC fights. Even against her own stablemates!"

"Queens of Pain, Queens of Cosplay and Queens of the Cage do not have a single member of royalty in their stables! They're all in the Royal Fighting Society. Except for Kate Middleton. Weirdly, she is a Raccoon."

"Dangerous Curves only has two members in its stable. Erin and Candice only have two members in their stable. Erin and Candice are lovers. Does that mean Danielle and Heather are also lovers?"
