

hella. creative

We are a collective of 100+ Bay Area creatives that banded together to support one another at the height of COVID-19. We started an online group to socialize, collaborate, and develop new ideas.

We have only one rule: keep it positive and look out for each other.

Why we're doing this 🙌

- Social distancing is keeping us inside, and we need ways to support and spend time with each other.
- COVID-19 will have a long social and economic impact. We need to organize as a community to share resources and address what's happening in the world.
- Share job opportunities to help each other find work.
- Support each other's personal projects, so we can continue to make art and tell our stories.

How invites work 📧

For now, HellaCreative is invite-only, but you can apply to join.

Projects we've worked on 🎨

HellaJuneteenth

Press 📰

Adweek, SFChronicle, Protocol, HuffPost

FAQ

What's a creative professional? 👥

If you identify as creative, you're welcome here. If you're not sure, the community includes over 100 artists, designers, researchers, PMs, marketers, engineers, stylists, strategists & more.

Do I need to be in the Bay Area? 🏠

We're starting with our friends in the Bay Area. If you've lived here in the past year or two, that's cool. Over time, we may open this up to other cities and towns.

What's the Slack group like? 🌐

Here are a few of the channels:

- #intros — say hi, meet new people
- #personal-projects — share what you're working on
- #blacktivism — how can we help?
- #thebar — take a break and discuss anything (happy hours hosted regularly!)
- #hireme — post and share jobs
- & more, there are over 25+ community-generated channels!

How can I reach the group?

You can email us, find us on Instagram, or find us on Twitter.

Who's organizing this?

Brian Watson, Quinnton Harris, and Miles Dotson