Frostbite holds Charity event in Morgantown West Virginia 2/28

On the night on February 28, Frostbite went off the beaten campaign trail to hold a charity event. Never forgetting the empathetic spirit his mom instilled in him. Frostbite always loved helping others in his own time and is very giving. The charity was a casual buffet with Karaoke and dance raising money for "relay for life". A positive mood filled the air and it was an extremely enjoyable night. Frostbite let down the persona of a congressional candidate and was a regular citizen for the night. At his table were others from the relay for life foundation, among which were cancer patients. Frostbite struck up a conversation about how his mother had had breast cancer. Talking about the experience always brings back memories for him. But being able to relate to his constituents and understand their pain is something he does best. After dinner Frostbite moved into karaoke and dance. Considering the event was in WV he, of course, sang Country roads by John Denver. Singing and dancing with people in pain, bringing them joy. That is not only the function of a leader but of an empathetic human being. At the end of the night, Frostbite gave a closing speech...

Frostbite: I just wanna say with all politics aside. This event has given me so much hope. With all the people in this room facing so much adversity to see us put aside our differences in order to come together and be happy is what makes America great. My mother had breast cancer. I understand the pain, it's not easy, so it was my pleasure to come out and raise money for a good cause. Thank you all so much and God bless you.

Applause erupt, but only for a brief moment as the main event take precedence. Frostbite shakes hands and gives hugs before seeing everyone on their way out of the event hall.
