

(Subject Line) A New Perspective...

Hey Jamie, I hope your afternoon is going well so far.

I know that building a good relationship with the audience is very important, and that's exactly related to some ideas I had for you. I had these ideas last night but wanted to wait for a good time to reach out to you.

These ideas are for captivating newsletter emails that you can use to bring in more attention to your training programs and memberships without being too pushy. This will make your customers super intrigued in your products and the message behind it.

Would you like me to send over a sample of the draft I have saved for you? I'm interested to test out this template.

With ENERGY,
Landon
