Before the event:

- [x] Check the master calendar and school activities calendar for conflicts (3 weeks before)
- [x] Turn in all appropriate forms, facilities request if necessary (3 weeks before)
- [x] Talk with your PR Liaison about promotion scheduling (2 weeks before)
  - Depending on the day of your event, consider airing a video announcement via the ASB monthly video as well
- [x] Finalize project plan and get it approved by corresponding ASBOs (1 week before)
  - [x]First check — Stephen
  - [x]Second check — Emily
- [x] Let the class know how everyone else can support the event (4 weeks before)
- [x] Take volunteers and put up a volunteer signup sheet (4 weeks before)
- [X] Put Project intro on the agenda. Use template provided or create your own slide. (1 week before)

After the event:

- [x] Put up a blog post for the leadership class to pass on feedback (3 days after)
- [x] Put Project Outro on the agenda. Use the template provided or create your own slide. (1 week after)
- [x] Reimbursements (1 week after, maximum 30 days after or not accepted)
- [x] Make sure that respective ASBO updates volunteer hours spreadsheet (1 week after)
- [x] Reflection (1-2 weeks after)
- [x] Email Mr. Lee your project plan link for evaluation (2 weeks after)

Contingencies

- Raining During Halloween Week
  - Moderate Damage
    - Drizzling
      - If there is a slight drizzle, we may have to dispose the Halloween Decs 11/1 instead of the planned day 11/2. Since paint is water resistant, no action may need to be taken.
    - Light Rain
      - If there is light rain, we will dispose the Halloween Decs the day of Halloween after 6th period

- Major Damage
  - Persistent Heavy Rain
    - If there is heavy rain, we may need to dispose of the decorations the day on the first day, though this situation seems extremely unlikely
- Wind
  - Moderate Damage
    - Knocked down decorations
      - Place an additional brick in every tombstone
  - Major Damage
    - Decorations outside the planter box
      - Place an additional brick in every tombstone
    - Lost Decorations
      - If the wind is so strong and persistent, we may need to dispose of everything to prevent littering.
- Vandalized Decs
  - Moderate Damage
    - Have a PR commissioner look out during brunch and lunch, dispose of any decorations that are heavily damaged
  - Major Damage
    - Have a PR commissioner look out during brunch and lunch, dispose of any decorations that are heavily damaged, and combine the 2 planters' worth of decorations into one.

Set up & Clean up

Set up Monday 10/29 7:00 am

- Tombstones
  - Stake into ground with stakes from 2020.
  - Put a brick in each. Get from 2020.
- Zombie Hands
  - They stake themselves
- Pumpkins
  - 8 pumpkins in the 2 small planters
  - 4 pumpkins in one big planter
  - 5 pumpkins in the other planter
- Flowers
  - Stuck into the ground
- Lights
  - Wrapped around trees starting from the ground up
- Ghost
  - Zip-tied through the trash can

Clean up EVERY DAY Mon-Thurs after 6th

- Bring tombstones and pumpkins into the den. Put on ground under the projector

Clean up FRIDAY after 6th

- Recycle tombstones and ghost
- Dispose of flowers and zip ties
- Store zombie hands and *lights* in PR cabinet
- Bricks return to 2020

Reflection:

---

Please answer all of the following questions in detail and in complete sentences. You have the freedom to complete this reflection in whichever format you prefer.

Record any useful data from the project and a general summary.

What went well?

One of the things that I got many compliments on was the uniqueness of this event. People said that it is rare to see these 3D decorations right after Homecoming. Last year PR's Halloween Decs was a backdrop to take pictures in front of. Improving on that and expanding on our vision, I planned that it would affect a bigger part of campus and make it "spookier". Overall, it worked and people thought the decorations were pretty good.

I really liked our location. The location was between the 500s and 600s wings, somewhere that everyone was bound to pass through. We were originally planning to do it in the square area in front of the bathrooms between the 500s and 600s wings, and I'm glad we didn't do it there. If we did it there, all the decorations would be inside of it, and thus it would be somewhat hidden. Also, that place didn't have as much space to work with as the planter boxes.

What did not go well?

The problems from this event all stemmed from unexpected things out of our control. We had originally scheduled time after homecoming week to finish volunteering making decs, but we did not at all expect the den to be completely shut down. Thus, volunteering was completely scratched for the days, and we were forced to take it home to finish on our own. Despite being very scrambled, we were still able to make them turn out how I envisioned them.

Extending on volunteering, the meetings were not as productive as we would have hoped. First of all, we needed at least 8 volunteers for each day if we wanted to finish before homecoming, but unfortunately, only about 2 or 3 people were signed up each day. We also asked class officers, but even then, only one or two CO's showed up. And once meetings actually started, people were not working productively, and instead were mainly socializing.

Did you reach your initial goals? How? Why or why not?

Despite the delays caused by volunteering, I'd say we were able to accomplish our overall goals, based on the feedback from other people. They liked the halloween decs and thought it really brought the "spooky" to Lynbrook.

On the other hand, the tinsels were not very pretty. They were unexpectedly short, which made it hard to use. This ended up to the tinsels being just somewhat randomly drooping from the trees. Next time, we need to make sure that they are long enough to wrap around the trees like how we envisioned it.

How did this project tie into our overall ASB vision?

PR is really trying to focus on improving campus climate this year and ASB wants to help destress, and I think this event really accomplished that. Halloween decs, especially it's timing, helped students feel destressed.

After homecoming, everyone is super tired and exhausted, so these light hearted decs were really effective to remind people that the holidays are coming, and that they should keep their heads held high.

What advice or suggestion do you have?

Really plan for the unexpected. The den shutting down almost forced us to completely scrap the event, so make sure if you do any events similar to this, other events won't completely destroy your event.

Also, make sure you know and plan out everything precisely. I didn't measure the trees width, so I really didn't expect the tinsels to turn out too short. That was really the most disappointing thing for me about the decs.
