

Sacred Grief Work - Retreat Pricing

Pay What You Can Model

We have instituted a Pay What You Can Pricing Model to help everyone access this important work, regardless of financial ability to pay. This pricing model is inspired by the Green Bottle Model from Worts + Cuning.

As indicated above, after you fill out an application, we will send an email invitation with a payment request, based on the pricing tier you select in the application. Please read through our recommendations below for how to decide which price to select.

$$$ Top Range - $895

The highest price tier for the retreat reflects the true cost of producing and hosting the event. Please note: This price is not paying extra; it is the fair market value for the retreat, based on comparable regional prices.

We recommend paying this price if you

- are financially secure
- have personal savings
- own property, or
- are not worried about how paying for the retreat will impact your ability to spend money on other things.

$$ Middle Range - $695

The middle option for the retreat is a discounted price that does not fully cover the costs of producing and hosting the event.

We recommend paying this price if you

- have access to steady income and your basic needs are met
- are working to pay off debt or build savings
- are not harmed by paying this amount, but you may have to cut back on discretionary spending, such as going out to dinner or buying new clothes.

$ Low Range - $495

The lowest price for the retreat is a further discounted price that does not fully cover the costs of producing and hosting the event.

We recommend paying this price if

- you have access to basic needs
- your financial situation feels tenuous, or
- you would have to save up for many months to be able to afford a higher price point.

Scholarships

If attending this retreat creates a significant financial hardship and you would like to seek a scholarship, please indicate this when you submit your retreat application. There are a few scholarship opportunities available at 25-50% of the lowest tuition tier. For scholarships, we prioritize applicants from historically marginalized communities, first responders, veterans, those in the helping professions, and students.
