

Project – Development of agile production scheduling algorithms and software for Smart Manufacturing

Automatic scheduling must be achieved based on information about available machines, their capabilities and parts to be made, considering current loading. Other constraints such as penalty for not being able to ship etc. must be considered.