

a game where players risk their lives to survive a series of deadly children's games...

a Hiromu Production
#MVSQUIDGAME

Based on the Hit TV Series on Netflix, Squid Game makes one of the most creative ways to survive in a battle royale like game. Bringing this story to MVRP benefits to inspire writers alike to step up and test their limits up to survive these games. Do you have what it takes to survive? Then come join us!

RULES BEFORE JOINING.

- Please be respectful towards everyone. That includes the writers and the writer in charge who is leading the event.
- Please listen and follow instructions towards the event. We need some ears up to focus on what's going to happen and what the plans are.
- This event will be an 18+ only which means minors will not be able to participate in MV squid game. This is only for our safety upon anything that can prevent in the future so we hope you all will understand this and would like to thank you for your interest.
- There will absolutely be no rushing upon other writers to force them to reply. You may bump them once but don't bother them when they got other stuff to do outside of the event. Remember we're all human and our mental health is more important to focus on, so please make sure they're given the time to respond.
- Everyone is allowed to come! Rather if it's from a verse or an OC, they are all valid to participate. As long as they aren't using any powers or their immortal abilities. For example, if your muse is Goku, he can still participate just as long as he can't go super saiyan or anything crazy. This would be counting as cheating so, make sure they're willing to die in the games!
- Please be sure to meet the deadline or early while playing these games. We wanna make sure that everyone gets in their reply and get on time enough to put in the work they need to put in while playing the games. If you miss the deadline you will be eliminated off the game automatically.

- Any questions, comments, or concerns needed during , please contact @RANGERXISEKAI.

With that said, I am beyond excited to share with you all the mastermind I have for this event. Please look forward to what we will have in store near the future.

Thank you for your support and have fun!
