Introduction

"You don't want me!" cried the child suddenly. "You don't want me because I'm not a boy! Oh, what shall I do?"

"Don't cry," said Marilla. "We can't send you back to the orphanage tonight. You'll have to stay here."

Anne is an orphan. She is eleven years old, thin, with red hair, and she never stops talking. She comes to Green Gables, Marilla and Matthew Cuthbert's home, but there is a problem. The Cuthberts don't want a girl. They want a boy to help them on their farm. What will they do now? Will they send Anne back to the orphanage?

Anne of Green Gables (1908) is L.M. Montgomery's first book. It is a wonderful story. Anne finds a home at Green Gables, and her sad life begins to change. But she changes the lives of Matthew and Marilla, and many other people too.

Lucy Maud Montgomery (1874-1942) was a Canadian writer. She is most famous for her children's stories. She was born on Prince Edward Island. After her mother died in 1876, she lived with her grandmother and grandfather on their farm. She liked reading and writing stories.

Later, she went to college—first in Nova Scotia, and then in Charlottetown on Prince Edward Island. She was a teacher for three years, and later she worked for a newspaper, the Halifax Daily Echo. She started writing stories and poems for newspapers and magazines. In 1911, she married a minister and moved with him to Toronto. But most of her stories are about her home, Prince Edward Island.

She wrote other books about Anne, but Anne of Green Gables is the most famous. People of all ages love Anne, the little orphan girl with red hair.
