1.2 The library establishes consortia, networking, resource sharing and conduct of cooperative activities with other institutions and libraries.

The library established consortia and engaged in networking, resource sharing, and cooperative activities with other institutions and libraries to enhance its services and expand access to a broader range of resources. Through consortia, member libraries can accommodate student and faculty researches from among member institutions and negotiate better terms for purchasing materials, allowing for cost savings and improved access to databases and journals. Library networking facilitates the exchange of best practices and innovative ideas, while resource sharing enables our students and faculty to access materials beyond their local collections within the library premises. Cooperative activities, such as joint community events or extension activities, foster collaboration and strengthen community ties.
