

Hoxton Hall Walkthrough Photo Guide for Audiences

Hoxton Hall is a brick building with cream painted arches.

The street address is 130 Hoxton Street.

The first arch on the far left of the building is the entryway.

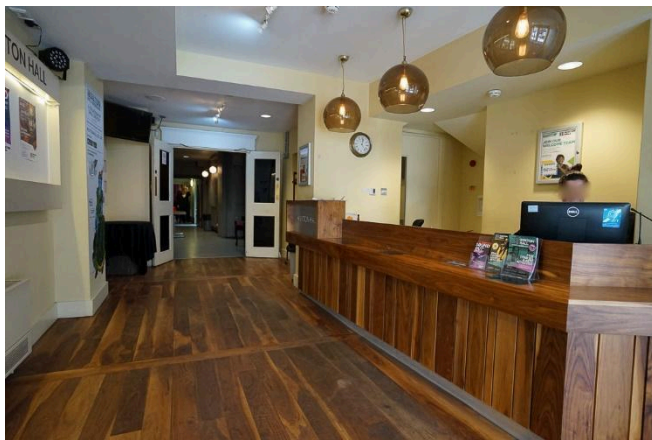

There is a step-free entrance with a slight slope with no handrail.

Entry is via an automatic door.

Ground Floor

	Ground floor (step free): • Reception/Box Office • Music hall • Bar • Accessible Toilet (backstage but will be open to public for NDK - signage or ask an usher)

Reception/Lobby

You can check in here when you arrive.

This area may get busy and noisy as audiences arrive for a show.

Ask here about ticket issues or if you need a member of staff.

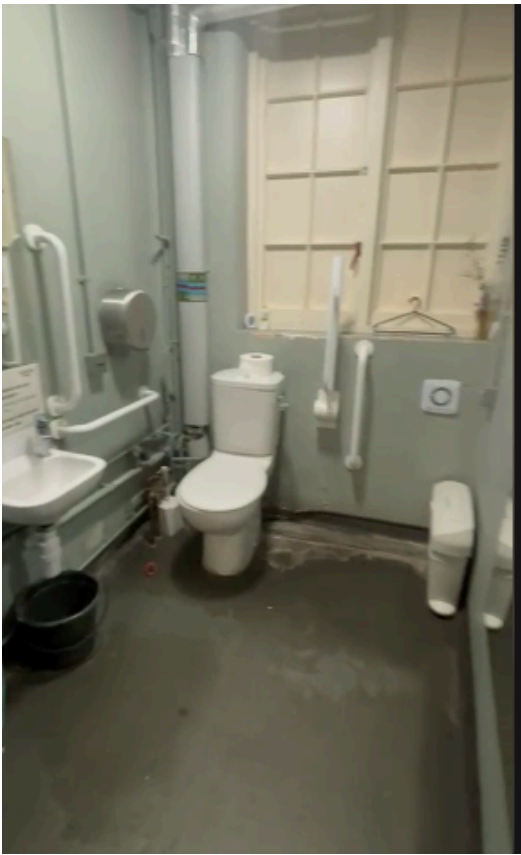

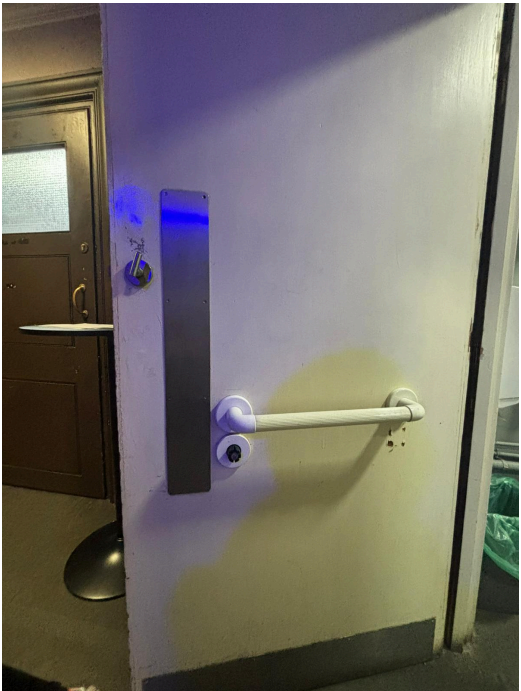

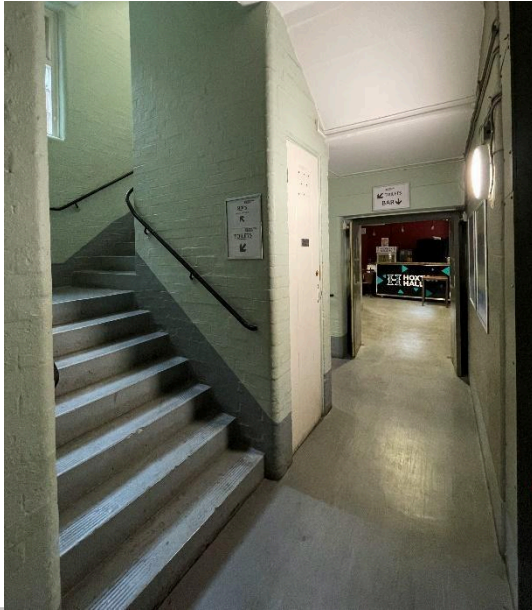

Main Hall

The main hall is:

- along a short corridor from reception
- then through double doors on the left hand side

The stage is on the far side of the room from where you enter. There are poles on each side supporting the balcony level.

 	Accessible Toilet (Back of House) This is the nearest accessible toilet to the main hall. During NDK it will be open for public use. There are more on floor -1 and floor 2. The accessible toilet is kept unlocked, you do not need a RADAR key. The lock inside is a small manual lock with no lever handle. Please note the lock is not at a lowered height. The other accessible toilets have a lowered lock. It can be locked/unlocked from the outside with a coin in an emergency. The bathroom has a lowered sink, grab rails, a sanitary bin and an emergency cord. The user moves to the right to transfer from their wheelchair to the toilet. There is a right hand flush. The basin is installed on the right-hand side of the user. There is no shelf or hoist.

Main Stairs

From the main hall, the next left along the corridor is a rising staircase.

This goes to all levels of the building, and is for public use.

Lift

The lift is:

- further past the staircase
- through the double doors
- on the lefthand side

The lift takes you to the other floors of the building.

It reaches all areas apart from balconies 1 and 2, which are accessed by 4 more steps each from their respective floors.

The lift buttons are at a lowered height with tactile raised numbers. There is no audio announcement for each floor.
