

About Us & Our Mission

by The Eco voices

About Us & Our Mission

Welcome to The Eco voices, a youth-led international initiative dedicated to bridging sports, languages, and global impact. Founded by a competitive student-athlete and polyglot based in Asia, our organization empowers the next generation to tackle pressing global challenges through advocacy, fundraising, and community leadership.

Who We Are

We are a team of motivated students who believe that youth should not wait for the future to make a difference. Combining our passion for high-level athletics, multilingual communication, and international relations, we leverage our unique backgrounds to raise awareness and drive resources toward causes that matter.

From the discipline of the swimming pool to the global perspective of international classrooms, our team embodies the values of resilience, leadership, and cultural empathy.

Our Mission

Our mission is twofold, targeting both global environmental preservation and local youth empowerment:

- Wildlife & Environmental Advocacy: We utilize our multilingual capabilities (spanning English, French, Chinese, and Vietnamese) to translate, amplify, and support global conservation efforts—specifically focusing on elephant and wildlife preservation initiatives in Africa. We aim to break language barriers to educate global youth on eco-diplomacy.

- Athletic Philanthropy: We believe every child deserves a fair start. Through charity sports tournaments and community organizations, we mobilize student-athletes to raise funds that provide educational and athletic opportunities for underprivileged children who lack access to these resources.

Our Vision

To build a global network of young leaders who use their unique talents—whether in sports, languages, or digital media—to create measurable, positive change in the world. We are proving that young diplomats don't need a passport or a title to start shaping international relations today.

Founder and president of The Eco voices: Bao Han QUACH