Dean & Associates, LLC "The Leader In Sports, Leisure and Entertainment Insurance" Direct Dial (773) 972-1235 Tom@fdean.com https://fdean.com/	5/19/23 They are dropping a lot of Forest schools because they are considering them more of a daycare vs recreation type camp 2/21/24 - Their old carrier is no longer covering 'out of the box' programs so many have received non renewal notices, but there may be options with a new carrier. Still worth looking into. Admin Comment (Brooke Ahlegian): This insurance provider seems to be the most commonly used for nature school programs based on my observations. Well reviewed by nature school leaders in multiple states.	Kate C. (entered by Brooke with Kate's Permission)

WA	Rudolph Birkenkopf	brinsurance@qwestoffice.net	We have used this provider for several years, but they recently switched underwriters and dropped us because we didn't have emergency lighting in our office. His customer service is terrible, I have to leave a message every time I call and then he sends a cryptic two-line email in response. I'm adding him to this list because having a crappy broker is better than no insurance at all! But beware: two out of five stars.	Merissa Koller Williams

Tips shared by school directors:

- Be open and honest with your insurer about what your programs entail.
- If your program is considered an enrichment program or day camp rather than licensed childcare or a full-time school, do not refer to it as a preschool, daycare, childcare, or school.
- If you aren't a licensed school or daycare, refer to "class fees" or "education fees," not "tuition."
- If parents attend, let the insurer know that.
- If your attendees don't come full-time, let the insurer know that.
- Background check all your staff and volunteers, and let the insurer know that.

Have parents sign a liability waiver. Most insurers can provide a draft
